

Man Fatally Shot, Another Wounded During Race Riot

Police and State Troopers
Trying to End Outbreak

LEXINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Tension gripped this North Carolina textile center today in the wake of a race riot that left one white man dead and a newspaper photographer wounded by gunfire.

All available police were called to duty, including about 20 state troopers. Municipal officials said they will ask for National Guardsmen unless the situation eases during the day.

Violence erupted Thursday night on the heels of attempts by Negroes to gain service at segregated cafes, a theater and a bowling alley in the downtown area.

A mob of about 2,000 white men gathered on one side of a street bordering the Negro section of the city of 18,000.

Police Cars Targets

About 100 Negroes assembled on the other side of the street.

Police said the two groups threw rocks, bottles and sticks at each other. Some of the bottles were filled with gasoline.

A Negro girl was struck in the head by a rock. Police cars were pelted with rocks and bottles. Windows were broken in a nearby Negro church.

Then a barrage of shots came from the direction of a Negro apartment building.

Art Richardson, 25, a photographer for the High Point Enterprise, was struck in the back. He collapsed into the arms of a deputy sheriff.

Another shot struck Fred Link, 24, of Lexington. Link died en route to a Winston-Salem hospital. The bullet struck him in the head.

Taken to Hospital

Richardson, father of four children with another on the way, was taken first to Lexington Hospital, then transferred to a High Point hospital for surgery. Attendees there said his condition was "stable and satisfactory."

3 Men Killed in Crash of Car Into Bridge Abutment

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Three men enroute to Canada for fishing died early today when their car struck a bridge abutment and burst into flames on Interstate 90 at the eastern edge of Madison.

Their deaths brought Wisconsin's 1963 traffic toll to 303, compared with 327 on this date a year ago.

Dane County traffic police identified the victims as Everett Sherwood, 48, of Richmond, Ind., believed to be the driver; his son, Roger, 24, also of Richmond; and Robert Keller of New Paris, Ohio.

Authorities said the trio had left home Thursday on a fishing trip to Canada. Their car was towing a trailer containing fishing equipment.

Authorities said Gerald Gjerelt, of Black River Falls, a firm, saw the crash and tried to open the car doors. He said he believed the men were alive then but he was driven back by flames as fire engulfed the car and trailer.

Three unidentified teenagers also arrived at about that time and tried to help but were balked by flames.

Roger Thom, 9, of Trimble, Pierce County, was killed Thursday evening when struck by a car as he rode a bicycle on Highway 10 within a block of his home.

Try to Rescue 2 After Tunnel Roof Collapses

Hampers Effort
To Reach Victims

PARKERSBURG, W.Va. (AP)—Knee-deep mud and falling rocks hampered rescuers today trying to reach two men—one alive and in great pain—who were buried under tons of stone when a railroad tunnel roof collapsed.

Workers hoped to free Arthur Boggs. Hope was all but gone for Harry Nichols, after another cavein slowed rescue work and injured two unidentified men. The rescue workers escaped.

The collapse occurred Thursday night in a Baltimore & Ohio Railroad tunnel about 20 miles east of Parkersburg.

9 Men in Tunnel

Workers cleared away rocks from Boggs. He was lying face down. Rescuers were preparing to remove him from the debris when the second fall occurred today.

Nine men were working in the tunnel, raising the roof to accommodate higher freight cars, when the fall occurred. Boggs and Nichols were about midway in the 2,000-foot-long tunnel.

The falling rocks felled Robert Aihart, but workmen who dodged the fall pulled him free.

The tunnel is near Walker on the Wood-Wirt County line. The railroad in that area was closed for the summer to permit completion of the project.

Trooper Killed in Camp McCoy Tragedy

CAMP MCCOY (AP)—Spec. 4 Raymond L. Martin Jr., 20, Affton, Mo., was killed and another soldier severely injured Thursday when a road grader they were operating overturned on a sharp curve at the bottom of a hill on Camp McCoy.

Martin was decapitated. Pfc. Elmer J. Frenow, 22, of St. Louis, suffered a shattered left leg and possible internal injuries. He was taken to the Navy Hospital at Great Lakes, Ill.

Guardsmen in Alabama on Duty Sunday

WASHINGTON (AP)—About 4,000 Alabama National Guardsmen will go on active duty Sunday—only days before the crisis over admission of Negroes to the state university.

The men are members of the 31st Infantry Division, an Alabama-Mississippi guard outfit due to start two weeks of summer training.

Army authorities said the division's training schedule was arranged several months ago and has nothing to do with the crisis.

Nonetheless, whether by coincidence or not, thousands of Alabamians will be in federal Army uniform when three Negroes, with U.S. backing, try to enter the University of Alabama next Tuesday at its Tuscaloosa campus and on Thursday at its Huntsville branch.

There appears a legal question whether guardsmen on training duty can be used to enforce federal court orders.

But Army sources said this is somewhat academic since "they can be federalized with a stroke of the President's pen."

The important thing is that these Alabama National Guardsmen already will have been mustered, if President Kennedy should decide to use them.

Youth and His Dog Disqualified From Going to Badger Boys State

BY DION HENDERSON

MILWAUKEE (AP)—"It's not so much that I feel bad about missing out on a new experience," Tom Teggatz said. "But I hate being disqualified for a reason like that."

Tom is an 18-year-old junior at Watertown High School. He was one of seven Watertown boys selected by a faculty committee to join some 900 other outstanding high school juniors at Badger Boys State, an annual week-long workshop in government sponsored by the Wisconsin Department of the American Legion.

Blindness Bars Him

But after seeing Tom's records, Legion officials changed their minds. "We are extremely sorry,"

Principal Twesne recalled Thursday how in those first days Tom and his dog, a Black Labrador called Blackie, came to school early so that they could practice getting around before classes began, and how the two adapted themselves readily to the rush and scurry of a big high school's activity.

With the help of records and friends, Tom caught up with his school work and found time to take part in a speech contest, and attend various school activities—including basketball games.

"The faculty committee picked him," Twesne said simply. "because we think he's a fine boy and deserved to be selected."

Since the rejection, a number of appeals have been made vainly to the Legion. Even the Governor's office became interested in the case.

Len Zubrensky, an aide to Gov. John W. Reynolds, said he had called Ove and explained that since the state does not underwrite the project held on the Ripon College campus, "we couldn't demand that Tom be accepted."

"But I explained to Ove that we would appreciate it, that the Governor would appreciate it, if Tom could be given the opportunity he'd earned."

Request Rejected

Ove sent the Governor a long letter this week rejecting the request, and citing various instances he'd heard of in which blind persons were an inconvenience in large gatherings, where their guide dogs were in unfamiliar surroundings.

"The dog is not acquainted with the Ripon College campus," Ove wrote the Governor, "and we do not have sufficient personnel to assign one of our volunteer staff to handle this one boy."

Tom Teggatz, 18, poses with guide dog, Blackie, whose presence didn't convince Wisconsin officials of the American Legion that the pair couldn't attend a week-long workshop in government sponsored annually by the Legion. Teggatz was selected by the faculty committee of his home town Watertown, Wis., High School, but was rejected by Legion officials because he is blind. (AP Wirephoto)

Pioneers on Mars

Expert Envisions 1st Landing on Red Planet

BY FRANK CAREY

DENVER (AP)—The first United States expeditionary base on the planet Mars may resemble an adobe village of the prehistoric American Southwest or Mexico—with the crude buildings made largely of "local Martian construction materials"—a space scientist said today.

The quaint scene was envisioned by Percy H. Bliss of the Rand Corp. He said that rocks should be available on the Red Planet and that, along with water procurable by condensing the atmosphere, there well might be cement-making materials in the sandy soil, such as limestone, calcium carbonate and sulphur.

Thus, he told a symposium on the exploration of Mars staged by the American Astronautical Society, there would be all the makings for a community of simple construction.

It might even be possible to manufacture Martian-brand cinder blocks, he said.

Rocks, either picked up on the surface, or tapped from bedrock with explosives, could be shaped for construction work with "laser guns," he added.

Bliss said the first adventurers to reach the planet would have to make all possible use of indigenous Martian materials to cut down on cargo-hauling from the earth.

But, building of the Martian adobe would be preceded by the following shelter facilities:

When the spaceship first touched down on the new world, the astronauts might expand their cramped capsule living quarters by inflating a "rubber-fabric room" already attached to one end of spacecraft.

Lined all around with a layer of plastic foam, this huge, balloon-like room would keep the men comfy against the cold—150 below—Martian nights.

Later, when they got organized, and became accustomed to moving about on the low-gravity planet, they would perhaps erect prefabricated buildings made of aluminum, steel, wood or plastic.

Gunman Robs Oshkosh Tavern

$566 From Bar,
Wore Red Bandanna

OSHKOSH — A masked gunman held up Butch's Tavern, 201 Wisconsin St., at closing time this morning and escaped with about $566 in currency and change. He reportedly was armed with a .45 caliber military-type pistol.

Owner Harold Youngworth was locking up when the gunman entered. Two patrons also were in the tavern. They were Clarence Plotz, 1133 Cherry St., and Harold Trout, 14 E. New York Ave.

The robber was described as between 25 and 30 years old, five feet eight inches tall and weighing between 135 and 160 pounds. He was wearing a pair of dungarees and a wide belt. Color of his clothing was not known.

Red Bandanna

The lower portion of his face was covered with a red bandanna, and he was wearing a stocking cap.

According to Youngworth, he had turned off all the lights in the tavern except the night safety light when the gunman entered through the front door.

The man tossed Youngworth a bag similar to a small flour sack and ordered him to "throw all the paper bills in the bag." The gunman then asked for the money kept in a side drawer.

Before leaving, the gunman told the three "I would hate to kill one of you guys; this thing makes a big hole. He then ordered the trio to kneel on the floor and then to lie flat. He told them "Give me five minutes and I'll be back for five minutes," and then left.

Legislature Recesses Until June 18 to Let Committee Map Figures

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON—The Republican majority leadership of the legislature has made a slight overture toward settling the state capitol's finance-tax deadline, but there is yet no assurance that Gov. John W. Reynolds will relent sufficiently to make a bargain with the men who run the legislative branch of the state government he heads.

Speaker Robert Haase of the assembly announced last night after a protracted caucus of the assembly Republicans that the legislature would be in recess all of next week, until Tuesday, June 18, to give the joint finance committee time to work out a level of proposed budget spending for the next two years that suits the Republican majority party.

That substitute budget total, which will almost surely fall short by many millions of dollars of Reynolds' own budget, will then be shown to him as a token of Republican good faith in negotiation for a fiscal settlement, he said.

Then the governor will be expected to show his good faith, in turn, by moving to negotiate for a settlement of his differences with the Republicans on a new revenue bill to finance the budget for the next two years, Haase said.

But Haase said he has had no sign thus far that the governor is willing to compromise on his hitherto adamant anti-sales tax stand.

No Official Action

The assembly leader said the preparation of a Republican substitute budget is intended to meet the governor's objection that the Republicans are privately resolved to cut departmental expenditures in a hurling way.

The Republicans would not adopt the budget; they would merely prepare it for legislative consideration, and then hold it pending some agreement with Reynolds on how to finance it.

Whether such a maneuver will bring any response from the governor is not certain. Haase made it clear in a news conference that, for himself, he is not optimistic. "There has been no indication that the governor has changed his position," he said, as he also flatly denied that there have been any secret discussions with the Democratic executive as reported this week.

Assemblyman Pommerening, head of the assembly finance committee who with Sen. Waller Holm, is expected to introduce the bill.

Drownings Take Lives of 2 Boys

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two children drowned Thursday in separate water accidents. Marshall Galina, 11 months, drowned in Squaw Lake in the town of Minocqua while playing on the beach with three small companions. The boy was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Galina, who operate a resort on the lake.

The boy's mother said she heard one of the children cry out, and found Marshall face down in only inches of water. Physicians at a Woodruff hospital worked 90 minutes in an unsuccessful attempt to revive him.

Larry Patterson, 7, of rural Whitewater drowned Thursday when he apparently stepped into the deep water at Whitewater's Tripp Lake municipal swimming beach, not yet officially opened for the season. Larry could not swim.

Problem for Macmillan

Scandal Involves Security

BY RAYMOND E. PALMER

LONDON (AP)—A beautiful redhead's simultaneous affairs with the British Secretary of State for War and a Soviet naval attaché posed a new security headache today for Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

The redhead is 22-year-old Christine Keeler, who also numbered two West Indian Negroes among her lovers and was termed a call girl in parliamentary debate.

In a copyrighted interview in the Daily Express today she said she saw Secretary of State for War

John Profumo once or twice a week for several months in 1961—when she was 19 and he was 46.

She said Soviet Cmdr. Yevgeny (Eugene) Ivanov, former assistant naval attaché in London, "was also a friend of mine at the time I was going with Jack (Profumo)." Ivanov is now believed here to have been an intelligence agent.

"I did see each of them on the same day on two occasions," Miss Keeler said. Her roommate at the time said in the Daily Sketch Thursday that "on more than one occasion as Jack left Christine at the flat, Eugene Ivanov, the handsome young Russian naval attaché, walked in."

Profumo resigned from Macmillan's government and the House ordered an examination of security and police reports on the Profumo affair. Labor party leader Harold Wilson has been promised when he said March 22 that there was nothing improper in his relationship with Miss Keeler.

In his letter of resignation, Profumo continued to deny that any breach of security was involved. Queen Elizabeth II.

The queen agreed and thus was removed from involvement in the breach, the matter still is extremely grave because Profumo, the husband of former actress lan's Conservative government. The palace decision to receive Profumo had drawn strong criticism in Parliament.

Reynolds Talks Of Compromise On State Taxes

Refuses to Detail
On How Far He Is Prepared to Go

MADISON (AP)—Gov. John W. Reynolds indicated Thursday that he is prepared to go along with a tax compromise, but he failed to say how far he would go.

"Republicans know I cannot sign a general sales tax bill and will not sign it," Reynolds told more than 100 schoolmen who met with him to urge passage of a state budget and tax program to assure continuance of school aids.

Prior to meeting with Reynolds, the group buttonholed Republican legislators to make the same plea. They came to Madison on call of District Five of the Wisconsin Association of School District Administrators.

Asks Income Tax Boost

A tax compromise, Reynolds said, will have "maybe an increase in income taxes and some increase in excise taxes."

An excise tax is really a sales tax by another name.

"We assure you, governor, that there is no dishonor in compromise," Delmore Zirzow, clerk of the Alma Board of Education, told the governor.

In Reynolds' own tax bill, killed by the Assembly, he proposed the addition of one per cent to income tax rates and repeal of the selective sales tax. But he included "excise taxes" on autos, beer, liquor and cigarettes.

Charles Hub of Shawano, association president, said he thought

Assembly Passes Bill Allowing Parents to Set Beer Buying Age

MADISON (AP)—The State Assembly passed and sent to the Senate today a bill that would permit parents to set the minimum beer buying age for their own children. The vote was 73-20. The measure would retain the present 18-year-old minimum age, but all persons less than 21 could only buy beer if they possessed an identification card issued by the county clerk. The identification cards would be issued only with the consent of parents and could be revoked by a parent.

"This will put the responsibility on the parent where it belongs," said David Obey, D-Wausau, a sponsor of the bill.

Farmers Warned Of Grain Aphids

A University of Wisconsin entomologist has warned farmers to be on the lookout for grain aphids in their grain fields. E. H. Fisher said that grain aphids have appeared in damaging numbers by early June for several years. The season lasts into July in some northern counties.

The aphids transmit red-leaf virus disease of oats and yellow-dwarf of barley. The aphids may also cause plants to dry up.

Fisher says it's not easy to predict how bad the damage may be. He recommends control by spraying when aphids are first noticeable. Fisher advises a spray of malathion.

He also recommends planting oat varieties next year that are not so susceptible to red-leaf virus. The susceptible varieties include Clintland, Clintland 60, Clinton and Fayette.

Marlon Brando Plans to Leave Acting Career

Actor Says He's All Through After Six More Pictures

BY BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What's all this about Marlon Brando winding up his acting career? Such reports filtered back from his recent travels for "The Ugly American," and I aimed to find out if they had been exploitation-tour dialogue or the real thing. So I tramped out to Universal, where Brando is now playing "King of the Mountain."

"Yes, I have six more pictures to do and then it's over, finished, that's all," he said.

How come? Doesn't he get satisfaction from acting any more? "Yes, to a certain extent," he replied. "But the point is that to do other things give me more satisfaction and hold my interest more. And I must say that this is the way to go."

What would Brando be doing if he didn't act?

"Directing interests me a great deal. Also, I scribble. My briefcases are bulging, and I should do something with what's inside." But he indicated that his burning interest lay not in the movie business but in the world around him.

"For instance, the whole area of civil rights," he said.

Brando attended the recent reception for Negro leader Martin Luther King at Burt Lancaster's house. He was so taken with King's speech that he contributed $5,000 to the cause and volunteered his services wherever he might be needed.

The recent tour brought Brando more public exposure than he has known in virtually his whole career. He popped up on television shows all over the channels and did interviews from dawn to early morning.

"For 20 years I have neglected to do and then it's over, finished, that's all," he said.

How come? Doesn't he get satisfaction from acting any more? "Yes, to a certain extent," he replied. "But the point is that to do other things give me more satisfaction and hold my interest more. And I must say that this is the way to go."

Full Season Suggested For All New TV Series

Survival of Program Depends on Rating Firm's Audience Estimate

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Somebody's suspicion, ignorance and intolerance.

(and I think it was Richard Boone once. A couple of seasons back when he was getting bored playing Paladin year after year) wearily suggested a law limiting any television series to a maximum life of three seasons.

This viewer, having spent the past season flipping dials and sampling programs, now wishes there were a law giving every program a full season in which to creep into the hearts and habits of the public before a decision is made about its continuation.

But, alas, in network television, if a series fails to grab an enormous audience—according to the rating services' estimates—a couple of months after its debut, its fate is sealed.

"Sam" Benedict, NBC's "Sam Benedict," now on reruns and due to disappear in September, is a case in point. It began as a breathlessly busy show, with one major plot and two or three sub plots in each episode, and left the viewer tired and dizzy. Then it slowed down, improved and simplified its story lines and after a couple of months became a good, entertaining show—not great, but okay.

Now, after months of exposure to Edmond O'Brien in the title role and Richard Rust as his young assistant, it will sort of be like losing old friends when it goes. But then, after all these months, I'm still not accustomed to seeing "Perry Mason" on Thursdays, so maybe habit is very strong in me.

Speaking of lawyers, the season's record for sudden death has been chalked up by NBC's legal soap opera, "Ben Jerrod." It made its debut in April. It dies at the end of this month.

Apparently, it's hard to lure the housewife audience away from CBS' "Password." Earlier, NBC dropped "The Merv Griffin Show" because of its low ratings against "Password."

Come July, however, NBC will try fighting fire with fire, or fighting games with audience participation. It will start "People Will Talk," which Arthur Godfrey originally made as a pilot program in Hollywood last summer. Dennis James—not Godfrey—will be in the host's chair when the show starts.

That roving "Route 66" show on CBS has its problems trying to dig up new dangers for its heroes each week in a different town. Too often on Friday nights the the series projects, nor, one suspects, a fair one.

Valet Joins Drivers in Rawhide

BY TV SCOUT

6:30-7:30 (Channel 2) — Brian Aherne pops up on the Rawhide repeat as Woolsey, the gentleman's gentleman who attaches himself to Gil Favor when his former employer is killed. He's a bit of a nuisance but gets a chance to prove himself handy.

6:30-7:30 (Channel 4-5) — International Showtime's repeat added some real-life thrills to the usual circus make-believe. During the taping, in Orebro, Sweden, of a high wire act, an elderly performer slipped and caught the wire with his finger tips, 40 feet off the ground.

7:30-8:30 (Channel 2) — The repeat on Route 66 uses an old gimmick, but cloaks it so beautifully that you may not suspect it until the end—and then you'll kick yourself for being so glib. Martin Milner, holding down two jobs, meets a pair of oddball sisters who both seem in need of instant psychiatry.

7:30-8:30 (Channel 4-5) — Oil up the old vocal cords, it's time to sing Along With Mitch for a repeat of the season's premiere show. (Color)

8-8:30 (Channel 11) — I'm Dickens. He's Fenster repeats a show which hides a slick psychological commentary among the usual gags. The crux of the plot concerns a safety award given to the firm which employs John Astin and Marty Ingels. They react to this honor with a bevy of accidents.

8:30-9:30 (Channel 2) — Great gobs of gripping suspense makes the repeat on The Alfred Hitchcock Hour very mummy. Key 30z cockian vein. "Don't Look Behind You" is the story of a beautiful girl (Vera Miles) threatened by one or more maniacs.

10:20-12 (Channel 4-5) — Tonight's guest is William Dupree. (Color)

Woman, 92, Seeks License To Drive Car

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Lillian Tenney, who is 92 and a motorist, plans to talk with traffic officials about her lack of a driver's license.

She has been driving horses and cars for 70 years and says all this fuss over her driving status is a lot of folderol. She has a collection of nine unpaid citations and court officials aren't sure what to do.

"You simply can't go out and arrest a 92-year-old woman and you can't have her breaking the law either," said Richard Brinker, court clerk.

"Why, I am an expert, unusually fine driver," said Mrs. Tenney, who uses a crutch. "People simply keep running into me."

Her 1954 model auto has dents in the fenders but is clean as a pin.

The former teacher said when she saves a tidy bundle of tickets she mails them to West Miami police with a polite little note and a $5 bill. Baffled police forward them to court.

"Once I sent them $34," she said. "They seem to be such nice gentlemen."

Expect Byrnes To Make Plans Known in Fall

Lawmaker May Enter Presidential Primary In State in 1964

BY RICHARD P. Powers
WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Wis., is expected to announce next fall that he will be a candidate in the 1964 Wisconsin presidential primary.

Sources close to the situation say his announcement probably will come Oct. 19 at Green Bay at an "appreciation night" testimonial to Byrnes.

Byrnes has urged Wisconsin Republicans to consider carefully whether they wish to use the favorite-son approach to the party's national convention next year.

This is not the time, Byrnes has said, to commit Republicans in the state to an individual candidate in the presidential primary.

Nevertheless, it is expected that Byrnes will enter the primary as a candidate in response to a request from the state's 72 Republican county chairmen.

State Primary
Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Wis., who has been urging Byrnes to enter the Wisconsin primary, insists his entry should not be merely on a favorite-son basis.

"I am proposing that John Byrnes enter his name as a candidate for the nomination, period. Not as a favorite son candidate," Laird said.

His purpose in urging Byrnes to run, Laird said, is not to keep any other potential GOP candidate out of the state's primary. These would include Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York, Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona and Gov. George Romney of Michigan.

March Deadline
Actually, Laird said, he seriously doubts that Rockefeller or Goldwater will have announced formally whether they will be candidates by the March 3, 1964 deadline for entering the Wisconsin primary.

Laird said the only Republican who has announced he will enter state primaries next year is Harold Stassen, former governor of Minnesota and now a Philadelphia lawyer.

Laird said he was a delegate pledged to Stassen at the 1948 convention which chose New York's Thomas E. Dewey. But, he said, he would consider it "a travesty" to send the Wisconsin 30-man delegation to the 1964 convention pledged to Stassen.

Best Equipped
"My purpose is to propose John Byrnes for the nomination and not keep any person out of the Wisconsin primary," Laird said.

"I believe Byrnes is the best equipped possible candidate for the Republican nomination by temperament, experience and ability of anyone on the horizon. He has the most responsible Republican job in Congress outside of House Republican Leader Charlie Halleck of Indiana."

Byrnes is chairman of the House Republican Policy Committee and is senior Republican on the House Ways and Means Committee.

Laird contends that decisions of Republican policy in the last few years have been made in the House and not in the Senate.

"The House is the battleground where we hammer out policy on such things as fiscal matters and taxation," Laird said.

Admiral Says U.S. Carriers Aren't Worthless as Weapons System

Answers Those Criticizing Flattop Program Because of Overflights by Russian Planes

BY BEM PRICE
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy's top airman said today Russian planes — and any first rate Sea Scout — could pretty well locate any U.S. aircraft carrier in peacetime and the Navy couldn't care less.

But there was one point in the interview Vice Adm. William A. Schoech, deputy chief of naval operations for air, wanted to make quite clear:

"Russian bomber flights over U.S. aircraft carriers, seemingly at will, have raised some questions as to the value of the flattop as a weapon. Actually, these flights are a form of electronic warfare in which the United States is being invited to give away secrets. Here is a report by a veteran Associated Press military affairs writer."

Schoech, deputy chief of naval operations for air, wanted to make quite clear:

"Anytime the U.S. Navy doesn't want one of its carriers found, nobody finds it."

Schoech said he was fed up with people who have concluded that because Russian bombers have flown over U.S. carriers six times in the last year, the carrier is now worthless as a weapon.

In the latest incident six twin-jet medium range Russian bombers flew over the carrier Ranger 330 miles east of Japan last Tuesday.

"We made no attempt to classify the going and coming of our ships," Schoech said. "We do this deliberately because if we practiced security movements we would be giving the Russians the best possible exercise in coping with us in wartime."

"We do our best," he continued, "not to give away our wartime patterns. There is a real danger in going into war when your opponent has all the dope on you."

The admiral pointed out that the Ranger was traveling non-stop from Japan to the United States via the northern Great Circle route, that thousands of people in Japan and the United States knew when she was leaving and when she was arriving and that she was making no effort to maintain radio silence.

"Any good Sea Scout with a plotting board and a radio sitting at home could have located her," the admiral said.

"But," he added, "when we keep our electronic mouths shut, they can't find us."

This business of Russians flying over carriers is all very friendly on the surface, with both sides waggling wings and waving.

Basically, it is one of the deadliest species of nonshooting war, extant in which billions of dollars have been invested.

Briefly, it is a form of electronic warfare in which each side tries to determine the efficiency and range of the other's detection devices, the characteristics of the electronic counter-measures and even the counter-counter-measures.

Schoech characterized it as a "cat and mouse game," one in which the United States has declined to play.

Even so, he hinted ever so slightly that it is a game in which the United States is learning far more about the efficiency of Soviet devices than vice versa.

What goes on in this field of electronic warfare is so sensitive to the nation's security that some of the very top people in government have asked that they be kept in ignorance of advances lest they let something slip inadvertently.

In any event, there are certain reporters in this town who know roughly at what range the Navy can detect, track and destroy hostile aircraft — and it is farther than the 100 miles at which Ranger aircraft began "escorting" the Russian bombers.

These reporters know, too, of Navy orders that hostile action on the part of approaching Soviet bombers — evasive action, activation of radar blinding gear, opening of bomb doors — is to be met with hostile action.

On flyovers of the sort practiced by the Soviets, incidentally, a good bit of the electronic gear aboard a carrier is shut down. No point in giving away secrets for free.

From time to time, just for example, Soviet and U.S. fighters have been known to intrude into hostile territory briefly or to make bee line flights which might be interpreted on radar as an intent to intrude.

The purpose of these flights is to estimate the range of the enemy's detection equipment and the reaction thereof to the electronic forces, both ground and air.

"I think it is unfortunate that there are those who keep pecking away at things like this through ignorance," Schoech said of those who feel the Soviet flights spell the end of the carrier as an effective weapon.

He denied that carriers were dangerously vulnerable.

"We are talking about degrees of vulnerability," he said. "Certainly a big air base on land which cannot be moved and which can be pinpointed is vulnerable. If you could pin a carrier down to an operating area of, say, a hundred miles, it would be just about as vulnerable as a big air base."

"But you don't — and you can't — now program a ballistic missile to hit a carrier."

Foundation to Offer UW $500,000 to Build School of Architecture

ELKHART LAKE (AP) — The Wisconsin Architects Foundation announced Thursday it will offer the University of Wisconsin a half million dollars to go with an impending request for establishment of an accredited school of architecture at the university.

The foundation said the $500,000 would be offered to underwrite the first five years of school operation. In addition, the foundation said it would establish a curriculum at its own expense and provide a nucleus of an architectural library.

The foundation said it would donate $10,000 of its own funds and conduct a campaign to raise the balance.

The plans were announced at the foundation's annual meeting which ended Thursday.

Chinese Call Indian 'Tool of United States'

TOKYO (AP) — Red China called Avtar Singh of India a "tool of the United States" today and challenged his right to serve as chairman of the three-nation control commission in Laos.

The Peking statement carried by the New China News Agency countered a recent request by Singh and the Canadian member of the commission that the Lao government investigate reports that Red Chinese troops were in northern Laos. Poland, the third member, voted against the move.

"The charge made by the Indian and Canadian delegates was nothing but an out-and-out lie," Peking said.

Some Hectic Days Just Don't Pay for Newsmen

There are days in the newspaper business it doesn't pay for an editor to think — nor for a reporter to work — especially when he has to follow the boss' orders.

It was just that type of a day Thursday for John Sawall, Post-Crescent reporter at New London.

A note to Regional Editor Roy Valchka follows explaining "an afternoon in the life of a reporter."

Harrison Man Denies Junk Yard Violations

Carl Kuhn Held In Jail; Trial Set for July 10

CHILTON — A Town of Harrison man denied two counts of illegally operating a junk yard when he appeared Thursday before Judge D. H. Sebor in Calumet County Court.

Carl Kuhn, 50, route 2, Hilbert, was arrested Wednesday by Sheriff C. J. Kosmosky and was held in jail overnight. Warrants issued by District Atty. F. J. Schmieder charge Kuhn with a state statute violation by operating a junk yard within 750 feet of a state trunk highway. The second count charges Kuhn with violating the county zoning ordinance by operating a junk yard on land designated as agricultural in the zoning ordinance.

Trial was set for July 10 and Kuhn was released after posting $150 bond.

Zoning Ordinance
The county ordinance violation is a continuation of an earlier court action Kuhn was arrested several months ago for violation of the county zoning ordinance in regard to the junkyard.

He was granted an indefinite adjournment while attempting to have the zoning designation on the property changed to permit the scrap operation.

However, on April 18 the Calumet County Park Commission, serving in its dual capacity as county zoning board, denied Kuhn's petition and ordered the premises cleaned up within 30 days. Kuhn has allegedly failed to heed the order.

The junkyard is located along State 55, about two miles south of Sherwood.

Kennedy Sees New Weapons

IN THE WEST WITH KENNEDY (AP) — The Navy trundles out its latest land and air weapons today in a final show for President Kennedy before he starts concentrating on politics and civil rights.

Kennedy was to see the Navy's climactic display at the China Lake, Calif., testing station after flying there from the attack carrier Kitty Hawk via the Point Mugu, Calif., missile base.

After China Lake, the next stop on Kennedy's five-day, five-state itinerary was Los Angeles and a lavish dinner party tonight for the Democratic party contributors in the $1,000 class.

Saturday Kennedy will drop in at a breakfast for lady Democrats in Los Angeles before flying to Honolulu to cap his fast-moving tour with a civil rights address at a conference of American mayors.

Killian Sentenced For Swearing Falsely

CHICAGO (AP) — Former Milwaukee labor leader John J. Killian, convicted in 1956 of falsely swearing that he was not a Communist, was sentenced Thursday to one year in prison and placed on five years probation.

Killian, 38, whose sentencing was delayed by appeals that went as high as the U.S. Supreme Court, had been recently attending school, receiving a bachelor of science degree from the University of Wisconsin four months ago.

Killian has been a trustee of Local 1111 of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers Union in Milwaukee. As such he had been required by the Taft-Hartley Act to affirm that he had no Communist Party affiliations. He was convicted of signing the affidavit falsely and also was found to have associated with the Party.

Negroes Tired of Waiting

Lag in Desegregation Embarrassing to Many

BY JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—The great flurry now by the government, churchmen, mayors, businessmen and others to speed up desegregation raises an embarrassing question for white people, North and South. Why didn't it happen sooner?

The government — and some churchmen, mayors, businessmen and others—had been moving, but at a snail's pace, to end racial discrimination. But Negroes had to force on them the realization they hadn't done enough fast enough.

Negroes are finally fed up waiting for the equal treatment to which they are justly entitled as citizens under the 14th Amendment but for which they have been waiting almost 100 years since the amendment was adopted.

They know at last how much strength they have if they act together. Now they are using direct action in demonstrations, sit-ins, picketing, and boycotts. So far their action has been mostly nonviolent. It may not remain so.

And white people realize it. They can't claim to be suddenly moved by the injustice of segregation. This has been evident enough for years. They are fearful that bloody riots may come. If Negroes continue to be frustrated in their constitutional demands.

Made Plain

This was made plain Thursday by a source in close touch with Kennedy administration planning.

He said the administration hopes for a vast grassroots movement of racial conciliation to head off a possible wave of race riots North and South this summer.

This also explains why the administration now is going to push a number of civil rights bills at Congress next week and make a fight which it could have made before what happened in Birmingham shook white people awake.

There Negroes demonstrated peacefully even though more than 2,000 of them were arrested. But then, when Negro dwellings were bombed, a riot began, giving a foretaste of what could happen in many places.

White communities have sacrificed a lot of Negro good will by their delay in giving Negroes the equal treatment they're entitled to by law. Negroes know that what they get they have to fight for every step of the way.

Test Cases

It wasn't until nearly the middle of the 20th Century—when the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People took a series of test cases to the Supreme Court—that one form of segregation after another was declared illegal.

Nevertheless the Supreme Court carefully avoided saying the principle of segregation itself was unconstitutional. That would have meant saying that the 1896 decision that segregation was constitutional was wrong. The court finally said so in 1954.

By working together—but not in a solid way and under various leadership — Negroes over the years since 1954 began, with help of the courts and the federal government, to break down segregation bit by painful bit.

In places like Alabama and Mississippi it is still intense if no longer total.

As their confidence increased Negroes began to depend on individual test cases in the courts and took to direct action, like freedom rides and all that followed. But

St. Paul Group Sets Concert

Nursing School Chorus Will Sing At Baptist Church

The Mounds-Midway School of Nursing chorus from St. Paul will present a concert of sacred music at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the First Baptist Church, 233 N. Appleton St. The concert is open to the public.

The 40-voice chorus is on a concert tour of Wisconsin and will sing at the American Baptist assembly in Green Lake. James P. Davies, director of the chorus, is founder of the Moody Chorale and presently is minister of music at the First Church of the Covenant in Minneapolis, Minn.

The program will feature a trio of three freshman nursing students. The chorus last year was awarded first place in the women's division of the Chicagoland Music Festival.

The concert will include "Faire and Alleluia" by Merrill Knighton, "O Rejoice, Ye Christians, Loudly" by Bach, "O Lord, Increase My Faith" by Orlando Gibbons, "Let Thy Mercies Come Also Unto Me" by Katherine K. Davis, "The Beatitudes" by L. Stanley Glarum, "In Heavenly Love Abiding" by Mendelssohn, "This Is My Father's World," a traditional English melody, "He Died for Me" by Edwin O. Excell, "Anthem for Spring" by Pietro Mascagni, "Ev'ry Time I Feel the Spirit," "Were You There" and "The Rolling Stone," spirituals, and "Wondrous Love," a Southern folk-hymn.

Mounds - Midway School of Nursing is the only Baptist school of its kind in the upper Midwest.

the segregation wall is still enormous.

So far the Negroes have been led by moderates. If the non-violent action they advocate fails, the moderate view will be discredited as Negro impatience increases.

New Furnishings Now Adorn Senate Parlors

MADISON (AP)—The first new furnishings in nearly half a century were moved into the State Senate parlors Wednesday in a refurbishing costing $7,079.

With the new furniture came a new name, a decision to close the rooms to public hearing use and a suggestion that lobbyists be kept out.

"We ought to have one place where we can get away from them," said one senator.

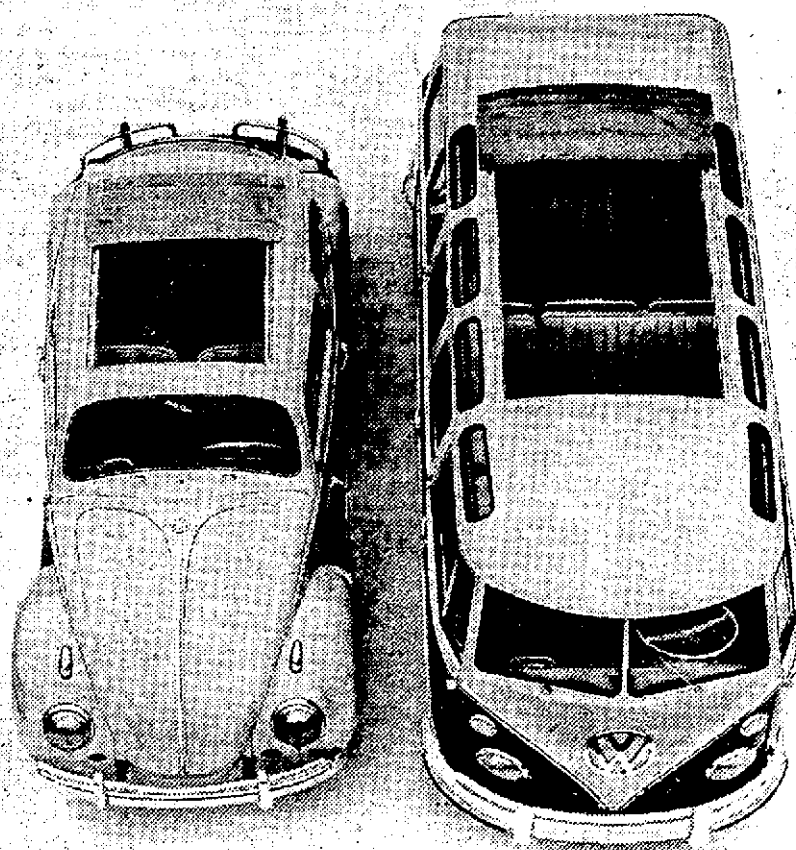

Henceforth the parlors will be known as lounges, meaning they will be excluded as settings for committee hearings. The Senate's floorleaders, Republican Robert Knowles of New Richmond and Democrat Richard Zaborski of Milwaukee, said the decision was made early in the session at party caucuses.

OVERSEAS DELIVERY AVAILABLE

Regular size. Large economy size.

Volkswagens come in two handy sizes: Sedan and Station Wagon.

The packages are very different, but the works are about the same.

There is a genuine Volkswagen engine in the back of each. It gives both cars solid traction on ice and snow.

The engines are air-cooled, too. So you never mess with water or anti-freeze.

The Volkswagen Sedan seats 4 adults comfortably or 5 adults uncomfortably. (A mother, a father and 3 kids are about right.)

The Volkswagen Wagon is only 9 inches longer than the Sedan, a neat trick all by itself.

It seats 8 comfortably, 9 uncomfortably and 10 very uncomfortably, but it's been done. (The kids that fit are countless.)

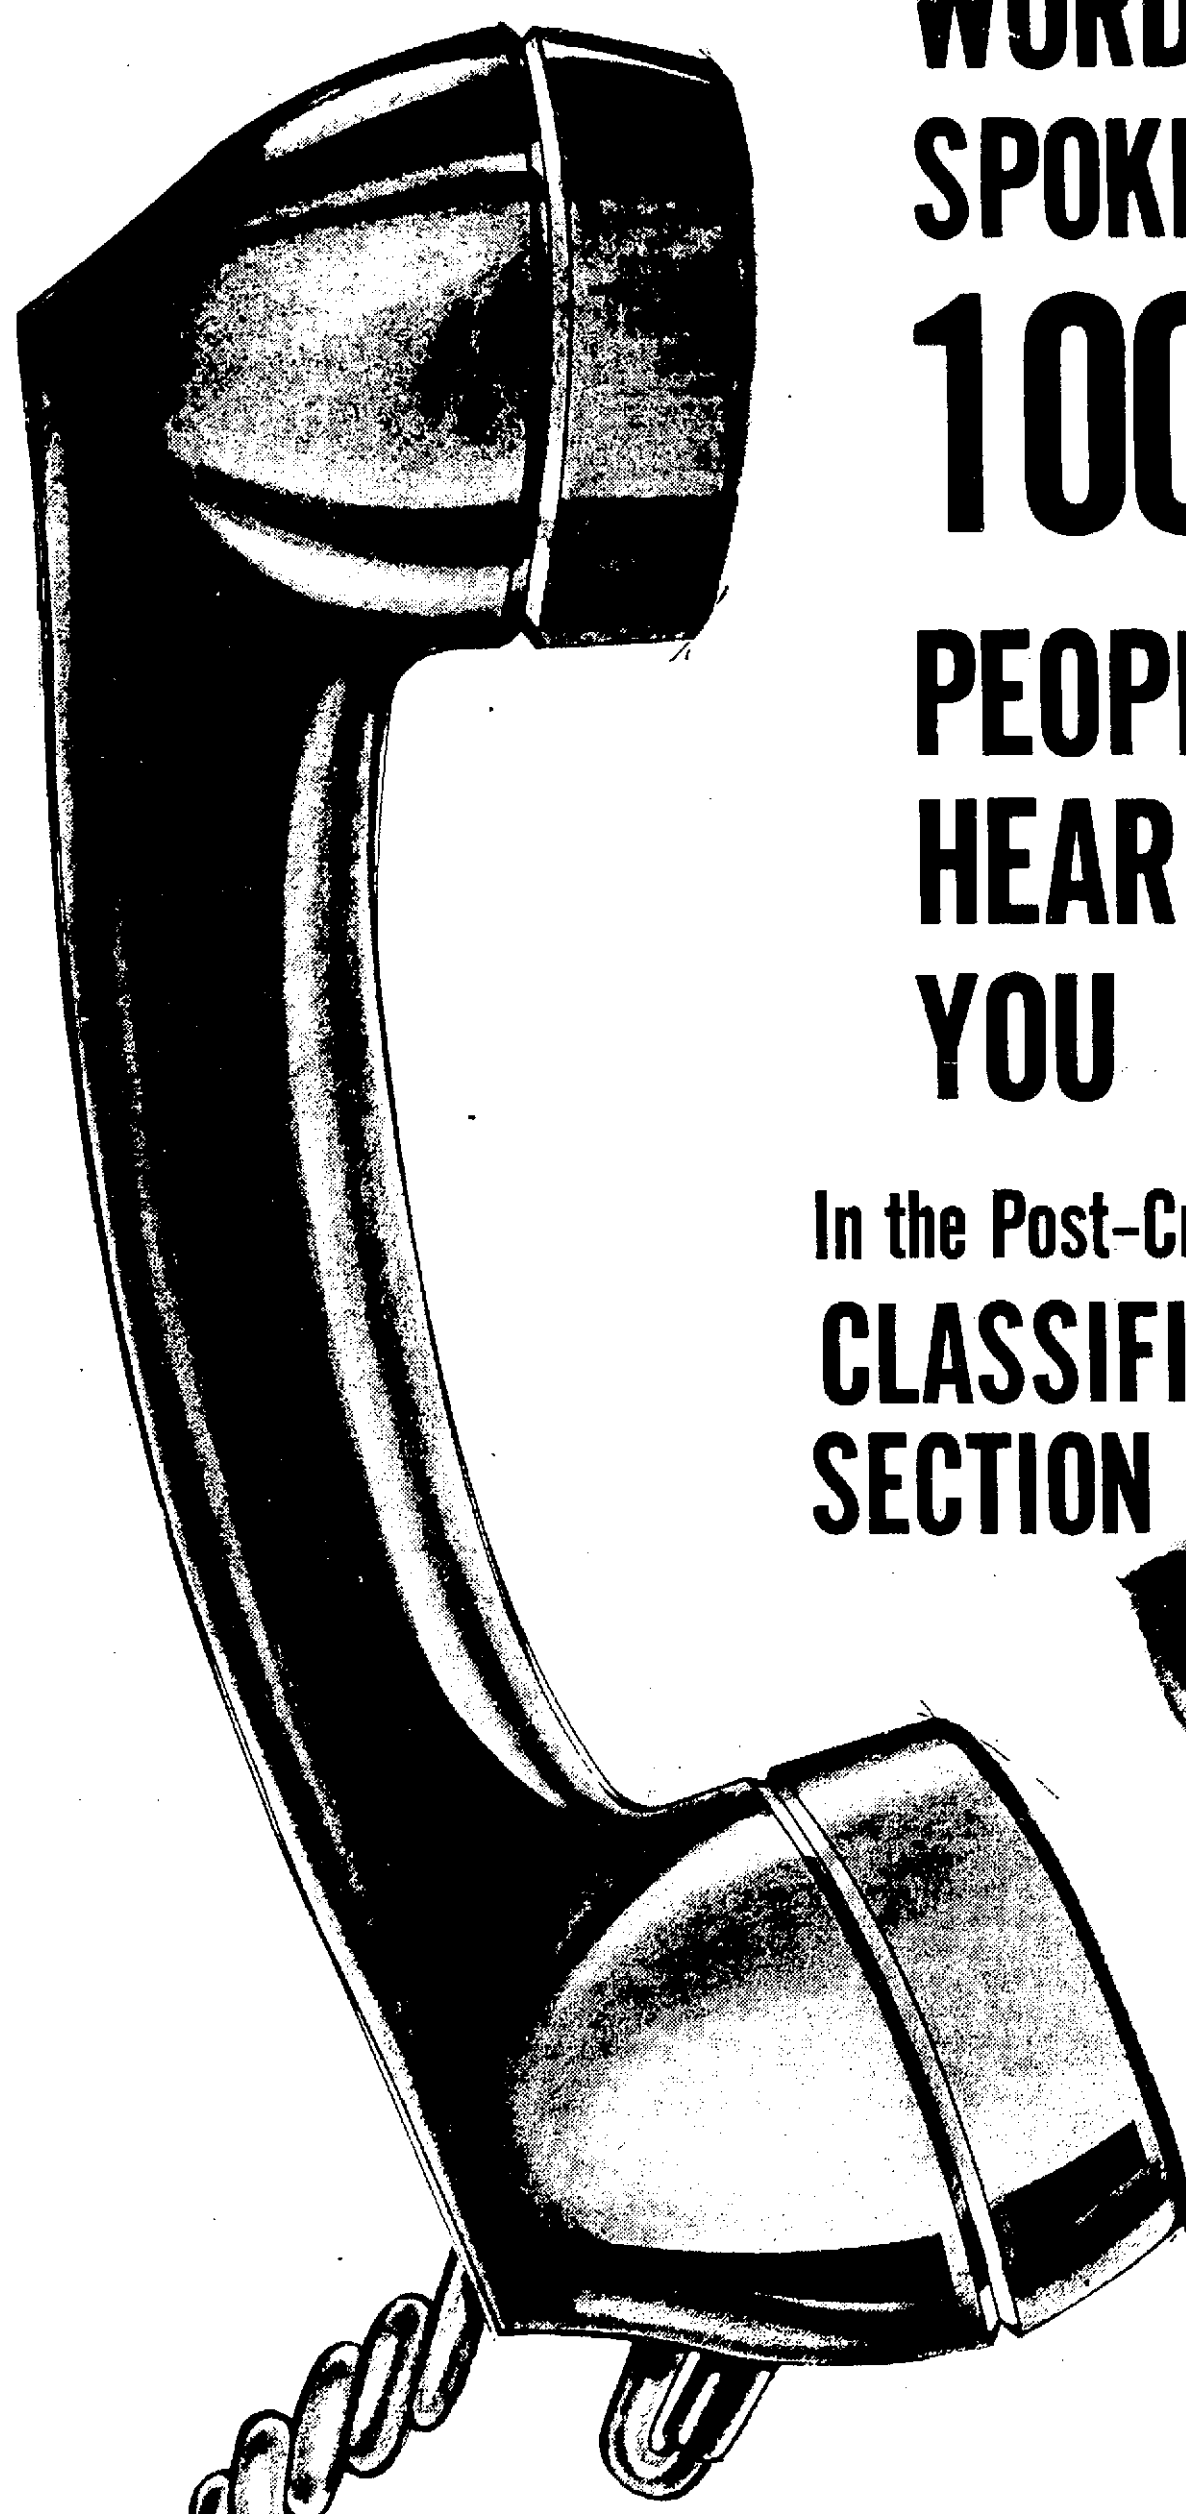

The VW Sedan averages 32 miles to the gallon, the Wagon a mere 24.

Once upon a time, people had trouble deciding whether to buy a VW or not.

Now they have trouble deciding which size.

Today's Etiquette

BY LOUISE DAVIS

SUGAR CUBE WRAPPERS

Dear Louise: When sugar cubes in a restaurant have paper wrappings, does one put the paper in an ash tray, saucer, plate or leave it on the table cloth?

Louise Davis Answers:

The paper wrapper may be put any place where it is unobtrusive, hoping the waiter or waitress will dispose of it. I advise against an ash tray because of the fire hazard. If the wrapper on the table cloth seems to displease you, try the butter plate.

STREWING ROSE PETALS

Dear Louise: Is it customary and correct for a flower girl to toss rose petals or buds in the path of the bride during the procession? If so, when and how is it done?

Louise Davis Answers:

Although at most weddings for many years, flower girls have been carrying small bouquets of nosegays. I note a trend toward the petal strewing again. What a delightful custom too, especially if a little girl can do it gracefully and without appearing self-conscious. She should also have a sense of proportion so that all of the petals won't be gone before she reaches the altar. She holds the handle of her basket with one hand, reaches in for a few petals and drops them on the floor in front of her. She begins with snoring amounts as soon as she enters the church aisle and becomes a little more generous with the strewing as she progresses.

Chocolate Squares

Unsweetened chocolate comes in squares and each square weighs an ounce.

Dramatize Your Leisure

Loungewear leads a fashionable private life for summer. Women can spend their leisure hours in loungedresses, robes and separates that are at home both in and out of the bedroom.

Natural or shift-shaped lounge-dresses, in knee to ankle lengths, cover home ground in a flatteringly feminine manner.

The long look, which gained favor in fall and winter, continues for spring in light and airy fabrics, in styles for patio living as well as for sleeping and lounging.

Pared-down loungedresses are preferably printed, in floral, abstract or "conversationalist" motifs. Tent-dress types bloom out in colorful solids and glamorous prints.

All Around House

Pants and jumper or shift cover-ups enable women to be fashionably at ease upstairs, downstairs, all around the house for spring. Long tunic tops and brief bared-midriff styles accompany the pants, which may be any style from slim and tapered to flared bell bottom. Lightly bloused harem styles are still another choice. The shapeless robe is a thing of the past. Today's fashionable robes copy coats, narrowing down to favorite spring shapes—sliver slim or in-at-front, free-flowing at back.

Ready for relaxing are a number of casual toss-ons, inspired by straight, mannish blazer jackets and sweaters.

The Far Eastern influence is seen, and appreciated, in the easy inspired shift, above. The fabric is a shiny, ribbed cotton in a sunny print, lined in green. At right, the new emphasis on at home loveliness is seen in the long hostess skirt in a bold abstract cotton print. The modest black top is a glamour attraction for evening entertaining.

If your golden leisure hours spell 'Beach' you'll want the glamour touch of the Sphinx, as interpreted in a burnoose featuring a bold curry and white gargantuan print on cotton terry cloth. Below, leisure might mean a fishing excursion. The outfit at left is complete with a tab loop to support the rod and reel, and D-rings for hanging the catch and equipment. The bell bottom pants at right tie for keeping out of the water, and the tank top may be worn in or out.

Woman Scores Coup on Shipwreck Story Rights

BY JOY MILLER

NEW YORK (AP) — Esther Faigan has been a book publisher in New Zealand 16 years.

So when she opened an Auckland newspaper last fall she knew from long experience what she had to do.

Here was the story of 12 men who had survived 101 days after shipwreck without food or water on the Minerva Reef, kept alive as much as anything by the heroic Capt. David Fifita and his daily prayer meetings for the castaways.

This was the kind of courageous survival that stirs public imagination—and send hopeful prickles up the spine of any publisher worth his hard-cover bindings. Obviously, the thing to do was to get publication rights.

Indomitable Captain As Mrs. Faigan related it here on her way to the American Booksellers Association Convention in Washington, she flew immediately to Fiji. That's where the survivors were hospitalized. She cajoled, exerted charm and finally made it to the bedside of the indomitable captain.

There British-born Mrs. Faigan pulled one of the year's memorable coups.

Publishing offers, wired from as far off as London, were piling up.

But who could resist the enchanting logic of an attractive, vivacious brunette who came personally to plead her case? Not gallant Capt. Fifita.

The resulting book, "Minerva Reef," by writer Olaf Ruben, will appear in New Zealand in late summer bearing the imprint of Mrs. Faigan's publishing house. It will be published here next year.

Fantastic Story "It's a fantastic story," she says. "They had one match with which they lit a fire to distill sea water for drinking, and their lives depended on keeping the fire burning for the next three months. They managed to catch a few fish, their only food. Five died. But I honestly believe the other 12 lived because the captain, a man of great faith, got them together every day for prayers."

Represents Publishers Mrs. Faigan, who will represent New Zealand publishers at the booksellers convention, is on a round-the-world trip.

She left behind two sons, 18 and 20, who are law students in Auckland. In Canada she visited her daughter, married to a young Montreal psychiatrist.

She stopped off for a few weeks in Tahiti "where you see mostly American men who have come there to realize their dream of women. After two or three days they're bored."

"The Tahiti women are beautiful—until they smile. Then you see they have no teeth. I never found out why. They do eat a lot of sugar, but so do others in the South Sea Islands who keep their teeth."

"Soon jets will be coming every day to Tahiti, and the balance will be destroyed. There will be more tourists than natives."

Mrs. Faigan started her publishing house as a hobby 16 years ago and in time her husband joined her in it.

Two Wonderful Worlds

Now that she's a widow, she's thinking of spending part of her time in this country. "This is my first trip to the United States, and it's so wonderful I wonder why I waited so long."

"New Zealand is a wonderful, leisurely place to live—with glorious climate and the most beautiful beaches in the world. Here in New York you have such tremendous mental stimulation, always something to sharpen your wits on. If I opened a second publishing house here and lived in both countries I'd have the best of two wonderful worlds, wouldn't I?"

The bride-elect attended Kaukauna High School. Her fiancé attended Kaukauna High School and is employed at the Piggly Wiggly.

South went up with the ace to run the rest of dummy's clubs.

Declarer discarded three spades and a diamond on dummy's clubs, saving just the A-K-J of diamonds. West had to save the king of spades to prevent dummy's jack from winning a trick; and West therefore could keep only two diamonds.

With nine tricks in sight, South was not going to risk any finesse. When South cashed the ace and king of diamonds, West's queen dropped and South cashed the ace and king of diamonds. West's queen dropped and South therefore made an extra trick.

"A wonderful play," West exclaimed. "The best backward squeeze I've seen since the Lenz-Culbertson match of 1932. I'll bet you've been studying."

"I don't have time to study," South admitted modestly. "These plays just come naturally. I guess, if you keep your wits about you."

"Very brilliant," East commented, but his heart wasn't in the compliment. He knew that his partner had thrown away the defense and was making a fuss about the squeeze play as a smokescreen.

After South had won the third trick with the ace of hearts, he led a club. West played low, and that was the end of the defense. If West had played the queen of clubs, that would have been the end of South.

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND
By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.

ARE LONG ENGAGEMENTS A GOOD IDEA?
YES ☐ NO ☐

Yes, they are. The overly long engagement may be a sign that one of the partners shies away from being married. But studies show that engagements of six months or more terminate in better marriages than do the engagements that do not provide enough time for the couple to ready themselves for marriage. An engagement should be long enough for the pair to build a sense of unity between themselves and in the eyes of their friends and families. They need time to make their personal plans for their life together in ways that are difficult before the engagement.

The subjects of engagement and marriage are further analyzed in the pull-no-punches booklet, "Facing Facts of Married Life"—yours for 20 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope sent to this column, in care of this newspaper.

Should parents expect their children to go to college?

YES—NO—

Recent studies show that parents of nearly 70 per cent of today's children expect them to go to college. The tragedy is that college is an impossible goal for many children. Many youngsters who manage to get into college learn only the bitterness of failure, and should never have attempted it in the first place. Parents are wise to get professional help in understanding their own children's potentialities and then helping each child develop his own talents in the ways that best fit him.

Scholarship Officials Need Logical Estimate of Costs

BY MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

Along with the season of high school graduations, come thoughts of financing next fall's trip to college. Here's a timely letter about applying for scholarships.

Dear Miss Feeley:
We expect to complete the parents' confidential statement of the College Scholarship Service for one of our children who will be entering college.

Of course we retain all of our cancelled checks, but we do not feel these reflect the total amount of our expenses. For instance, how would one arrive at a reasonable estimate of "annual home expenses" when a lot of the expenses would be paid in cash (including taxes, utilities, etc.)

Mrs. M.K.T., Stillwater, Minn.

Dear Mrs. T.:
The authority in charge of scholarship applications at a large university tells me that a "reasonable estimate" of annual home expenses is expected to be kept at a minimum.

Figure in your cash outlays as well as your recorded payments. There is no necessity for proof of your figures, as there would be in filing an income tax return. Just estimate as logically as you can. This is simply information the college or university needs to guide their thinking in justifying a scholarship.

Dear Miss Feeley:
Regarding your reply to Bob B. relative to the National Defense Education Act of 1958 and obtaining a loan for a college education, I would appreciate more details. I have been trying to do this for my son who is matriculating at L— for dentistry, and we can get nowhere.

It appears that you have to be in the top 10 of your class, otherwise there is no room for you at the inn.

Frank S., Chicago

Dear Frank:
You sound a touch bitter at this point. You're getting discouraged too soon. It's true that recipients of these loans are selected by the college or university itself. And that the law does provide special consideration for superior academic background.

But there are other ways for students to earn money for an education.

U. S. Ends Opposition to Hungarian Delegates
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United States has abandoned the fight it has waged against recognition of the Hungarian delegation in the United Nations since the 1956 Hungarian uprising.

U.S. Delegate Charles W. Yost, noting that conditions have improved inside Hungary, refrained in a credentials committee meeting from making the usual U. S. motion calling on the General Assembly to take no action on the Hungarians' credentials.

education. Some 65 colleges have what are called cooperative programs, wherein students divide their time between classrooms and acquiring on-the-job experience and income. You might ask about this at L—.

There are also grants-in-aid money awards that generally apply toward tuition or living expenses of promising students unable to qualify for an academic scholarship. There's also part-time work to be considered, either at the college or in the vicinity.

Your Problems

Realization of True Happiness In Life Often Comes Too Late

BY ANN LANDERS
 DEAR ANN LANDERS: Why can't we live our lives backwards? I've been married 27 years to the most wonderful wife in the world, but I didn't appreciate her until now — when it may be too late.

Tomorrow I go to the hospital for surgery — lung cancer. I thought I was indestructible but I realize now how frail is man and how few are his days.

I have spent most of my adult life in the real estate business and I've done my share of cheating. I used to rationalize my affairs — saying "Why not? What have I got to lose?" I even told myself my wife was cool to me, when I knew she had every right to be. I drank a lot and stayed away from home for days at a time.

I know now the only genuine happiness I ever had was with her. I'd give anything to make up to that dear woman the anguish and heartache I've caused her. If God spares me I will spend the rest of my life being a good husband.

Before I go into surgery I shall tell my wife about this letter so she can watch the paper for it. It is something I feel compelled to do. Please, Ann, print this. — W.E.J.

Dear W.E.J.: Here is your letter. My prayers are with you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been living with Al for eight months. He had one bad marriage and doesn't want to risk a second one. He refuses to marry me unless he is sure we can get along together.

We never quarrel and I am sure he loves me, as I love him. But I hate living this way. I want to be his wife and not his mistress.

On top of all this I have a 9-year-old daughter by a previous marriage. The child is living with her grandmother and I want her here with us. Al likes her very much and is perfectly willing, but I'm afraid to uproot her unless I can offer the security of a home protected by marriage.

Al has a temper and I don't want to rile him. Shall I insist on marriage, or shall I bring my daughter into the house and hope for the best? — Al's Mistress

Dear Misguided Fool: Don't bring your child into a setup which you know is immoral. She is far better off with her grandmother.

As for you, I urge you to move out and stay out until you can sign your next letter "Al's Wife." He'll never marry you if you settle for the present arrangement. Why should he?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Are my parents living in the 18th Century? I am 16 and Otis is 18. We have been going together for six months.

When Otis comes to our home for an evening we must sit and visit with my parents or play cards with them. Occasionally when I invite Otis into the den so we can have a private conversation my mother criticizes me for being unsociable.

Last week I was on the telephone with Otis for 15 minutes. My mother made a new rule — a five minute phone limit, and she sets the egg-timer. Last night the egg-timer went off and Otis heard it. Now I think he is mad at me. If I lose him I'll be awfully unhappy with my mother. I need your help. — Yvonne

Dear Yvonne: Teenagers should not be expected to spend evenings playing cards with parents. I can't imagine anything more boring. And the egg-timer routine is an insult. I don't think a 15-minute phone conversation is out of line — but no longer, please.

Are your parents too strict? You can benefit from the experiences of thousands of teenagers if you write for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Shelf Ideas

When in doubt, put up shelves. And when in doubt whatsoever, put up shelves because they use space as nothing else can. Top designers made significantly wide practical and decorative use of them in the trend-important "Ten Best Dressed Rooms" created recently in the National Design Center in New York. Shelves in the rooms headquarters swing-out TV, become tables where actual tables would crowd space, produce an enriching background of books and favorite possessions for room furnishings.

Portable TV fits into one section of ceiling-high bookshelves in the room designed by Norman Shepherd, A.I.D., N.S.I.D. The set out of use is flat against the shelf front surface, and swings outward to angle the screen for comfortable viewing from any part of the room. Adjustment of the screen angle can be exact for the viewer, avoiding light reflections on the glass of the picture tube.

Where seating stretches far into a corner, Ernest L. Henry locates table convenience with a shelf. The shelf doesn't seem uncomfortably pushed into the corner as a table would, and looks right extending farther forward. Mr. Henry also disputes the idea that shelves should be high on walls with three that begin at table level and move upward only two levels higher. Space below this low shelf arrangement is a convenient parking station for floor cushions.

Shelf storage stacks building block style in a child's playroom designed by Robert Lindenthal, N.S.I.D. Red, white and blue open-end box units are lightweight enough for the child to move from one arrangement to another. The units can spread low for a small child to reach, and build upward as he grows. Shown with them are pixie mushroom stools designed by Mr. Lindenthal.

David Bell, A.I.D., covers a wall with shelves, fills the shelves, then arranges furniture in front of the wall. The result is a room background that's three-dimensionally decorated, and easy to rearrange. Mr. Bell angles the shelf wall at the corner and continues for posts as beams which converge at the center of the ceiling.

Build Doll House of Twigs in Beach Sand

BY CAPPY DICK

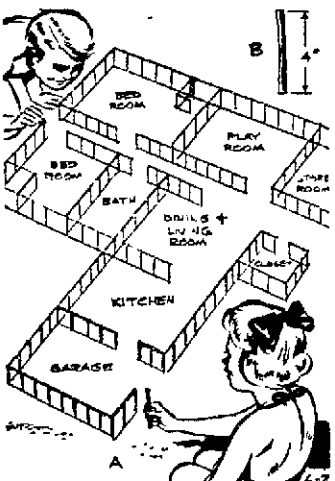

The doll house in the adjoining picture is not actually a house, but the floor plan of a house built in the sand at the beach. The outline is constructed of twigs and string. The builder can create as many rooms as he or she desires and the layout may be of any shape his imagination will create.

First gather a lot of twigs — reasonably straight ones four inches long ("B" of Figure 1).

Press the twigs into the sand to outline the house ("A" of Figure 1) and its rooms. When all are in place, connect the twigs with string running from the top of one twig to the top of the next. An easy way to attach the string is to split the top of each twig before sticking it into the sand. The string may then be pressed into the slits. No harm will be done if you must remove each twig to attach the string. Simply put the twig back in place in the sand.

In attaching the string, avoid blocking the doorways to the various rooms. This will make it necessary to use numerous pieces of string, rather than one long, continuous piece.

If you can find enough small stones of suitable shape, use them for furniture. For example, a flat, round stone may be balanced on top of a smaller stone to serve as a table.

HOW'S THIS FOR OWNER SATISFACTION?

91.3 PERCENT OF '63 CHRYSLER OWNERS INTERVIEWED BY A NATIONAL MAGAZINE[†] SAID THEY WOULD BUY CHRYSLER AGAIN. IT'S BEEN EIGHT YEARS SINCE ANY CAR WAS SO WELL LIKED BY THE PEOPLE WHO BOUGHT IT.

Why? Riding comfort. Handling ease. Power and performance. Clean, crisp styling. These things were named after a total of 1,297,466 owner driven miles, as the outstanding reasons for this overwhelming approval of the '63 Chrysler.

The 5-year or 50,000-mile warranty* — America's longest new-car warranty — was the deciding factor for many owners when they were choosing between a '63 Chrysler and other medium-priced cars.

If you haven't driven a Chrysler recently, why not take an hour today or tomorrow, and give a '63 Chrysler a thorough going-over. You'll find your Chrysler dealer's deal will be just as favorable as your rating of Chrysler.

[†]Name on request.

*Your authorized Chrysler Dealer's Warranty against defects in material and workmanship on 1963 cars has been expanded to include parts replacement or repair, without charge for required parts or labor, for 5 years or 50,000 miles, whichever comes first, on the engine block, head and internal parts, transmission case and internal parts (excluding manual clutch), torque converter, drive shaft, universal joints (excluding dust covers), rear axle and differential, and rear wheel bearings, provided the vehicle has been serviced at reasonable intervals according to the Chrysler Certified Car Care schedules.

Assembly Defeats Proposal for New Type County Board

21 Supervisors From Equal Areas Would Replace Present System

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The drive for legislation to reform the county government structure of the urban counties of the state failed in the state assembly Thursday, largely because of the opposition of legislative representatives representing those counties.

Only 10 of the assemblymen representing eight counties with populations of more than 100,000 in and 500,000 supported the bill to replace the county board system of Assemblymen Quinn and Grant, that survives from frontier times, with a new system of 21 supervisors elected from equal districts.

Those counties have 23 men in their delegations. Had all of them backed the bill the margin of defeat for the sponsors of the measure would have been narrowed, and might have led to some hope for ultimate success.

Crushing Margin

The rejection vote of 64 to 28, with eight members absent, represented a crushing margin in legislative practice.

The new county board system would have been installed, with enactment of the legislation, in Outagamie, Brown, Winnebago, Waukesha, Racine, Kenosha, Dane and Rock counties. In none of the counties did the whole assembly delegation favor the bill, however. In Outagamie County the bill had the vote of Assemblyman Froelich of Appleton, who was one of its authors, but it drew an opposing vote from Assemblyman Rogers of Kaukauna. In Winnebago County it was backed by Assemblyman Martin of Neenah, but opposed by Assemblymen Shurbert and Steiger. In Brown County it had the backing of Assemblymen Quinn and Grant, but was opposed by Assemblyman Vanderperren, a member of the present Brown County board, from a rural town. Even in Dane County, where the clamor for county board reorganization has been greatest, only three of the five assemblymen voted for the new board districting bill.

The defeated measure also contained provision for the creation of a county executive in the larger counties, which has also died for the year, according to all appearances.

Such a bill by Assemblyman Quinn of Brown County was easily approved in the lower house of the legislature earlier in the year, but it has been stalled in the state senate.

It has been held in committee for many weeks by Sen. Leo O'Brien of Green Bay, who has shown no disposition to allow it to come to a vote in spite of repeated requests by his colleague and townsman, Assemblyman Quinn.

Thus the bill will die by indirect action, as a similar measure died two years ago on O'Brien's committee although it had won a strong endorsement by the assembly.

Shop Owner To Face Court

Warrant Charges Man Allowed Youth In Liquor Store

Joseph Giordana, 37, 181 W. Wisconsin Ave., Kaukauna, owner of the Giordana Beer and Liquor Store, has been charged with allowing a minor to enter his liquor store, in a warrant issued today by Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer.

Sheriff Calvin Spice said Rodney H. Tepoit, 18, 211 W. Wisconsin Ave., entered Giordana's store Wednesday night when he purchased a case of beer for four youths later involved in an accident in Kaukauna. Two of the youths were fatally injured in the crash.

Giordana was scheduled to appear this afternoon in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

Jailer Picked As Outagamie Huber Law Officer

Raymond A. Klein, 49, Nichols, a jailer in the Outagamie County jail, has been named county Huber law officer by Sheriff Calvin Spice. Klein will begin his new job June 15.

Spice said Klein was picked from five final candidates for the position. He ranked first on testing. Ten candidates took the tests. The Huber law officer is responsible for supervising the program providing out-of-jail work for county jail prisoners. Klein was hired as a jailer April 1.

One Person Hurt In Two Car Crash

One person received a minor injury but was not hospitalized in a two car accident on N. Bennett and W. Spring streets.

Injured was Walter A. Kiefer, 20, 716 W. Elsie St., who complained of a sore left knee. His car, going north on Bennett, was involved in a collision with a car being driven by Miss Patricia Ann Knabenbauer, 18, 714 E. Maple, going east on Spring Street. Kiefer's car spun around and went over the boulevard after the accident.

Detergents Ban Bill Returned to Senate

MADISON (AP)—A bill that would ban the sale of most household detergents in Wisconsin was sent back to the Senate without recommendation Thursday by the Legislature's Joint Finance Committee.

Not Holding Up

Appleton Officials Show Concern on Several Streets

Some of the newer streets in Appleton apparently are not holding up as well as expected. City officials and others scheduled an inspection of a portion of Pauline Street between Owaisa Street and Ballard Road today after receiving complaints.

The Pauline Street project, completed by the LeRoy Geiger Construction Co., Appleton, last year, was called to the attention of the common council Wednesday night by the street-sanitation committee.

The committee report, adopted by the council, recommended that:

"A letter be sent to LeRoy

Geiger Construction Co. and their bonding company notifying them of defective work which has become evident on Pauline Street between Owaisa Street and Ballard Road prior to the lapse of the one year warranty period required by their 1962 contract with the city."

Also, a resolution by Ald. Donald Mueller (17th) calling for "an inspection of certain concrete streets" was held pending a meeting with city engineers and representatives of the Portland Cement Assn.

Mueller did not list streets he wanted inspected in the street-sanitation committee report.

A. B. Rothwell Tells AHS Graduates of Shortage of Specially Trained People

Angus B. Rothwell, state superintendent of public instruction, Madison, emphasized the importance of education in "this critical period for all young people" at Appleton High School commencement exercises Thursday.

A class of 456 students received diplomas in the school's 59th annual commencement.

Rothwell cited the increasing demands for higher education by employers, and the high unemployment rate at a time when there is a serious shortage of people to fill positions requiring special training.

Rothwell also stressed the importance of education to fill the need for better citizens and to improve "this business of human relationships."

Difference in Opportunity

There is a tremendous difference in the opportunities afforded high school students in Wisconsin, the state superintendent noted. Some small schools lack many things, but their graduates are expected to compete with those from Appleton High School which has a full program in breadth and depth, he said.

There will be 44,000 high school graduates in Wisconsin this spring

—5,000 fewer than four years ago. Rothwell said. "These dropouts will not have the opportunities offered to those receiving diplomas tonight," he said. "The future for them is very dark."

Many of the 5.5 million unemployed persons are in the 16 to 21-year-old age bracket, he said, and the number of unemployed youths is on the increase, even at a time when the United States economy is at a high level.

Serious Shortage

However, there is a serious shortage of people to fill positions that are open—in automotive, electronics, medicine, law and other fields that demand someone with special training, he pointed out. They require someone with a sound high school education who has built on that education, he said.

A high school education also must serve as a basis to fill the crying need for better citizens, he went on. "Citizenship is not something that can be delegated to those we elect. The security of our nation depends on an educated citizenry."

"This country is suffering from a bad case of poor human relationships," Rothwell said. "We are still settling too many of our problems by mass violence, and still resorting to strikes to settle economic problems, leading to havoc for both labor and management and eventually being settled around the peace table."

That kind of disaster can be avoided in the future "only by having educated people on both sides of the table, who can settle problems without violence," he said.

Student Symposium

Michael A. Liethen posed the central question of the five talks, "Where are we going from here?" He presented a statistical picture of the future the 456 graduates can expect, and noted that "each generation brings a freshness of ideas and spirit needed to discharge its responsibilities."

Jeffrey Berryman noted that "scientific knowledge is increasing 2,000 pages per minute," as a result of "conscientious exploration."

Curiosity — "the desire to know something simply because it is not known" — is what has motivated explorers, he said.

"We as a class promise we will often be the ones who explore and sometimes will be the ones who discover, but always will be the ones who wonder, because curiosity is the essence of knowledge and the future of mankind," he said.

Personal Ethics

Susan Jane Miller noted that the graduates have accumulated knowledge for 18 years, but "how we apply it will depend on our personal ethics."

"We must have knowledge to live, but we must have a solid core of ethics to contribute — and the core of this is personal integrity," she said.

"Beauty will be a constant force

Fox Valley Can Take Lead In Expressway Construction

Regional Planning Commission Asked to 'Nail Down' Routes

The Fox Valley area of Wisconsin can lead the state in economical regional expressway construction, just as it was the first in the state with regional planning.

This idea plus a plea to nail down routes for the proposed expressway now "so we don't end up like Milwaukee," was made by Leroy Empey Thursday at the quarterly meeting of the Fox Valley Regional Planning Commission.

Empey, who said he was speaking as an individual and a professional engineer, not in his official capacity as district engineer for the state highway commission, asserted that no one in the state has been able to do an economic job on expressways, and said, "maybe we can."

Less Expensive

Rights-of-way must be preserved, he said, and maybe even some sections purchased immediately, before the best location for the expressway is developed into residential, commercial and industrial areas. Open land always is less expensive, even though its value increases when needed for something like an expressway, he was pointed out.

Milwaukee is spending millions of dollars to buy and remove buildings to create open land for its expressway. An example of the same thing, but much closer to home, was given to the commission by Paul Kostka, Little Chute Village Board president.

He said there is a gap in Lincoln Avenue, about two blocks long, between Grand Avenue and Wilson Street. Less than 20 years ago, Kostka said, land to bridge that gap could have been purchased for less than $1,000. Today the land has been developed and the price is about $80,000.

Land Use Plan

The expressway route is closely linked to the commissions' land use plan. The success of one depends on the other, Eugene Franchett, planning director, said. He informed the commission that the existing land use plan is three years old, and received permission to update it this summer with the use of college students to do the field work. He said the cost of the work, including one part-time and two full-time students, will be about $2,500.

The new land survey and use plan will include the core areas of Appleton, Neenah and Menasha, which were omitted in the work done for the commission by Kenneth W. Schellie and Associates, Indianapolis.

Franchett also informed the commission there is a bill before the legislature which would give counties the authority to set up limited or controlled access to major traffic carriers. The state does not on its freeway-type superhighways.

Slippage Woes Still Exist

Bills Also Grow as Appleton Tries to Solve Soil Problem

Ground slippage, a chronic problem at the Vocational School and two other sites, continues to disturb city officials.

Also causing concern are bills of the Warzin Engineering Co. of Madison, the firm hired by the city several months ago to conduct extensive surveys and recommend a solution to the problem.

Public Works Director Robert W. Bues informed the board of public works this week the city has paid the Madison firm $13,000 to date.

In addition, the city spent an additional $1,300 on a de-watering system at the Vocational School slope which has proven unsuccessful. Its purpose was to pump water from underneath the ground.

Original Cost

Bues said in checking department records, he learned the original cost estimates for survey and engineering work by Warzin ranged from $7,000 to $10,000.

"We've actually spent more than $14,000 on the slippage problem and I think it would be wise for the city to check into this before more bills come in," Bues advised the board.

The board will have a representative of the engineering firm come to Appleton to discuss the matter.

Severe Weather Warning Issued

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A severe thunderstorm forecast was issued today for parts of southeast Minnesota and central and southern Wisconsin.

The Weather Bureau said: "Scattered severe thunderstorms with large hail and locally damaging wind storms are expected in an area along and 60 miles either side of a line from 40 miles north of Rochester, Minn., to 40 miles northeast of Milwaukee from present time until 6 p.m., CDT, this afternoon."

In Wisconsin this severe weather forecast includes an area south of a line from Saint Croix Falls through Wausau and Green Bay to Kewaunee and north of a line from 30 miles south of La Crosse through Lone Rock to Kenosha.

'63 Class Told To Eliminate Intolerance

Kimberly Seniors Hear Address By Classmate

KIMBERLY — "Develop the tolerance you have learned at Kimberly High School and eliminate the intolerance you have shown," Larry Timm said in a talk to fellow graduates at the school's commencement exercises Thursday night.

He said, "It has been found that unless you work for the success, security and happiness around you, you won't find success, security and happiness yourself."

Timm reminded the graduating seniors of the tolerance they showed in their first meetings as freshmen and then built up through the years, even in activities such as sporting events. He advised, "Let the tolerance continue to develop lest it turn into prejudice."

Space Program

In another talk, Harold Wetzel compared graduation to the completion of the Mercury space program. He said there has been a great deal of preparation and a great investment in reaching this level, step by step, graduating from one level to the next, having each upon the training, experience, and knowledge acquired in the previous level. "During the years," he said, "we have met man's greatest slave-driver — competition — this exposure to competition and the uncertainty of the future gives us deep concern and anxiety of what lies ahead."

"Confidence comes only with continued participation and a mutual working relationship with one another," was the thought imparted by Kathleen Wundrow.

She said, "Intense preparation is needed to make things successful, thus the more prepared you are the more confidence you have, and armed with confidence, we will be able to meet the trials of the world. Gaining confidence is a two-way street, for our confidence can be shattered or built by the people we come in contact with."

Different Goals

Sandra Weyenberg, in discussing the "Purpose," explained that goals in life are different, but everyone has one underlying goal, the acquisition of happiness. "Do what you are best suited for and do your best in everything, for that will determine whether we achieve happiness. True happiness comes only with sacrifice, so shed your mask of vanity and insincerity and strive to serve others and always do your best to lead a more simplified and happier life," she said.

The Pledge of Allegiance was led by Donna Van Elzen, the official welcome was given by Mary Gerrits, and Sandra De Bruin introduced the members of the Honor Society. The class poem was read by Lynn Wydeven.

The announcement of awards was made by Darrell Larson, the school principal, and the class was introduced by Ray Hamann, superintendent of schools. Harold Wetzel, president of the Board of Education, presented diplomas to the graduates.

Will be Amended

Multi-Service Bill Prospects Improve

The prospects for passage of the multi-service districts bill in the state legislature are much improved, the Fox Valley Regional Planning Commission learned at its quarterly meeting Thursday.

Eugene Franchett, planning director for the commission, said the bill is being amended so that

Mrs. George C. Munro, president of the Appleton Board of Education, presents a diploma to her son, Jonathan Davis, during commencement exercises at Appleton High School Thursday. He was one of 456 students in AHS Class of 1963. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Delegation Plugs Regional Port for Outagamie County

Local Officials Appear Before Aeronautics Board in Madison

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A delegation of Outagamie County officials today told the State Aeronautics Commission if it decides to support the idea of a regional airport to serve the Outagamie County-Winnebagos County market, that airport should be the new Outagamie County Airport planned for construction in the Town of Greenville.

The county officers with many others of other localities attended a hearing called to advise the state agency on the position it should take, on behalf of the state government, on the regional airport concept which is being considered by the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Attending also was a delegation representing Winnebago County.

Wrong Charge Listed In Conservation Case

OSHKOSH — Irvin M. Immel, 50, route 1, Larsen, has asked for a jury trial on a charge of possession of a gill net. The Post-Crescent on May 28 erroneously stated he was charged with fishing with a gill net. The case will be heard in circuit court.

Immel said the net was left in his bar, apparently by a customer. Immel was arrested May 21 by conservation wardens.

Asks Delay on Position

Ponath explained the Outagamie County service area would include Neenah and Menasha and environs, which compose "the richest and most populous part of Winnebago County."

To make the Winnebago County Airport adequate for regional service in the future would be inordinately expensive and would include the re-routing of State 26, Ponath said, adding that the construction of the Outagamie County Airport at the new site would cost less.

Ponath said the state commission should avoid taking a position now for or against Outagamie County, pending the outcome of the CAB hearing.

Sure Wasn't Raining Just Rain Thursday

A slag or cinder-like material found on a recently seeded lawn at 2610 N. Owaisa St. is being studied by authorities at Lawrence College and the Institute of Paper Chemistry.

Police learned Thursday "debris" fell against the house owned by Douglas Laux during a rainstorm Thursday afternoon. The University of Wisconsin Fox Valley Center was notified and authorities there warned that the material may be radioactive.

Defense Director Lee Penney was called and examined the material and determined it was safe. Penney said he had no idea what the material was or where it may have come from. Some of the debris has been picked up and turned over to authorities for further investigation.

Firm Offers to Sell Lots for Park Addition

Du Chateau Real Estate has offered to sell the City of Appleton eight lots on the far southeast side for $18,500, for an addition to Hoover Park. The offer will be referred to a common council committee.

Ely Declares Cut in Budget Will Not Damage Services

Says Solons Shouldn't be Stampeded

MENASHA — Wisconsin doesn't have to worry about a state budget cut harming essential services and the legislature shouldn't be stampeded into rash tax action, Arch Ely, Madison, executive director of the Public Expenditure Survey of Wisconsin, told members of the Wisconsin Paper Industry Information Service at the annual meeting Thursday at North Shore Golf Club.

At the business meeting of the information group C. M. Green, president of Mosinee Paper Mills, was named general chairman to succeed George E. Mackin, executive of Green Bay Packaging, Inc. New vice chairmen are George W. Mead II, a vice president of Consolidated Papers, Inc., of Wisconsin Rapids, and M. J. Aucther, vice president and general manager of Charmin Paper Products Co., Green Bay.

"The impression has been left that if the legislature doesn't grant every last dollar of the departmental budgets as requested, which the governor supported in his budget with a reduction so small it is hardly noticeable percentage-wise, schools are going to close, higher education in Wisconsin will be ruined, the hungry will go unfed, state employees will leave in droves. This is poppycock and part of the usual budget game," Ely told representatives of the 22 member firms of the Wisconsin Paper Industry Information Service.

Spending Key

"Spending is the key in the tax clash, to the stalemate between the governor and the legislature, and to the over-all fiscal situation," Ely said.

The Survey is a private non-profit nonpolitical government research and service agency for state-wide and community taxpayer organizations.

"We have spent $260 million in improving our state institutions the last 10 years. We also have spent more than half a billion in the same period in adding new secondary and elementary classrooms and we have increased teachers' salaries by 60 per cent. State spending increased by 151 per cent — all this in a 10-year period when population rose 15 per cent," Ely said.

Tax Disadvantage

Ely cited numerous recent studies showing Wisconsin has a problem in the burden of taxation on manufacturing and reports of individual Wisconsin businesses indicating the disadvantages of the Wisconsin tax structure. "There is a cynical disregard of these facts and of the impact of taxes upon economic development by both state and local officials who intend to push spending higher and higher irrespective of the facts of life," the speaker said.

Ely said that repetition of the totals asked for in the state budget has generated an impression that the totals are actual needs. He said that as presented the budget was not an indication of actual need but merely a chart of spending objectives.

Ely said that national figures show Wisconsin's reliance on corporate and individual income taxes is relatively high and that state and local government spending per capita in Wisconsin is higher than in any of the North Central states except Minnesota.

"Turnmoil"

"We will be in constant tax turmoil, and one creating great uncertainty until the spending structure can keep up with the pace proposed," Ely said.

Ely said that figures being cited by state officials to illustrate economic growth in Wisconsin do not take into account the profit squeeze effect of taxes.

He said that in 1962, 40 per cent of the 30,000 Wisconsin corporations filing income tax returns had no taxable profits and that the corporation tax collection total of $53.8 million that year was the population in the region desire a metropolitan project they can petition the circuit court for a referendum to get voter approval. If 50 per cent or more of the votes cast in each individual community favor the project it could be legally undertaken.

Multi-Service Bill Prospects Improve

For example, should it be decided that an expressway commission is needed to buy land, sign construction contracts and operate an expressway system, the court would be asked to order a referendum in the 11 communities in the region. If approved in each community the commission would be organized.

A suggestion to refer the bill for study to the Legislative Council and a joint committee of the council was made by Gordon A. Bubolz, an Appleton member of the commission. He was not able to attend the commission's quarterly meeting, but sent copies of his letter to Sen. Lorge and Franchetti.

Time Short

Bubolz said time was too short to do justice to the bill, both in preparing it for the senate and in laying the ground work for it. He said there was no opportunity to meet with representatives of municipal organizations to discuss the purpose and aims of the bill and the appropriate language for it.

Now that the senate has reconsidered its vote and referred the bill to committee it can be kept alive for further legislative consideration, the commission was informed. During the interim it is hoped discussions can be had with organizations which opposed it originally to iron out points which they first thought would be detrimental to the authority of enlisting local governments.

Bubolz said in his letter that the bill would be permissive legislation only, not mandatory. The routine set up in it for court action and referendums makes it necessary to get voter approval of any projects proposed.

Rome Begins Nine Days of Mourning

Pope's Body Now Buried In Basilica

BY BENNET M. BOLTON

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Roman Catholic Church began nine days of official mourning today for Pope John XXIII, whose body now lies at rest beneath the floor of St. Peter's Basilica.

Requiem Mass is being said each day at the Vatican basilica's great bronze-canopied central altar, a few feet above the subterranean crypt where the humble pontiff was removed from the eyes of an admiring, mourning world.

For two days and a night an uninterrupted stream of two million persons moved through the basilica to look in silence upon the face of Pope John as he lay in state on a candle-framed catafalque.

Thursday night the body was placed in a triple coffin and brought below into the basilica's grottoes to a place near the tomb of Pope Pius XI.

The nine-day mourning period extends through June 17, with two days out for major religious feast days of joy — Trinity Sunday next Sunday and Corpus Christi next Thursday.

On the final day of official mourning, June 17, the most solemn of the Requiem will bring presidents, princes and prime ministers to St. Peter's Basilica.

Johnson to Attend

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson will represent the United States. Bishop Vladimir Kotliarov will be the first Russian Orthodox Church representative at a Pope's Requiem since the East-West church split of 1054.

The pontiff died last Monday night. Cardinals continued to arrive in Rome. There had been 32 at the first daily meetings of the College of Cardinals two days ago. The number was 35 Thursday.

Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty, the 71-year-old Hungarian primate, was not expected, however. A high Catholic source in Budapest said the cardinal apparently has decided to remain in that city's U.S. legation, where he has lived in refuge since the 1956 Hungarian uprising.

An agreement had been reported previously between the Vatican and the Hungarian government by which the Communist regime's restrictions on the church in Hungary would be eased in exchange for the removal of Cardinal Mindszenty's embarrassing presence from the country.

The cardinals are directing the interim administration of the church and planning for their conclave that will elect Pope John's successor. The conclave will open June 19, two days after the mourning period ends, and voting will begin June 20.

Woman to Parachute Into River Saturday

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—Wanda Lea Cooper will go for a dip in the Susquehanna River Saturday afternoon.

For a legal secretary with a couple of days off, that sounds like a relaxing way to spend the weekend. But she will approach the water after a 10,000-foot jump from an airplane.

The vivacious, 5-foot-5 blonde will make a delayed 45-second free fall, pull the ripcord at 2,200 feet, and then maneuver in an attempt to hit a 100-foot target formed by a group of small boats.

Mrs. Cooper will be the featured attraction at a regatta 25 miles northeast of Baltimore.

The 30-year-old mother of a 10-year-old boy describes her employer as "tolerant, but most unhappy" about her hobby.

"After all, I know where the files are located," she explained.

Report Progress in Secret Budget Talks

$30 Million Said to be Gulf Between Reynolds, Republicans

MADISON (AP)—Reports are current that Democratic Gov. John W. Reynolds and Republican legislative leaders have made some progress in secret meetings toward heading off an impending budget-tax stalemate that could plunge the state into a fiscal crisis.

There have been confirmations of five meetings and a sixth was scheduled for Thursday night. However, there was no word that it took place.

Reports making the rounds say the governor and Republicans, who hold majorities in both the Senate and Assembly, were $30 million apart in attempts to strike a compromise on the budget.

The reports have it that Reynolds would accept a spending package of $639 million, or $30 million below his original request.

At GOP Nominating Session

Emotional Appeal May be Matched Against Can-Win Claims in 1964

BY JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans appear to be heading into a contest in which emotional appeal may be matched against can-win claims in the selection of their 1964 presidential nominee.

As matters stand 13 months before the party's convention, backers of Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., like to think of their man as the emotional favorite for a nomination entitling his bearer to buck the tide that usually flows for a president seeking a second term.

Supporters of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, on the other hand, believe he represents a philosophy persuasive in modern times in convincing GOP convention delegates that they should nominate the man they think has the best chance to win.

In the wings, watching developments, is Michigan Gov. George Romney. He might be shoved to the front quickly if Rockefeller and Goldwater get locked in a convention stalemate. The chance is considered remote that some real dark horse, like Sen. Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky, might get the nomination.

1940 Hopeful

If Goldwater is nominated at the 1964 convention the result will parallel in some respects — and differ radically in others — from the triumph of emotion that helped make Wendell L. Willkie the party's standard bearer in 1940.

Willkie defeated the party pros with a combination of a meticulously timed explosion of conventional enthusiasm and a carefully arranged deluge of telegrams and telephone calls to delegates from community leaders at home.

Probably few who read the temper of the delegates at the 1960 Republican convention doubt there will be a comparable upsurge for Goldwater at next year's meeting — backed by a surge of messages from the grass roots.

Willkie Boom

In Goldwater's case, this will have to be voluntary and spontaneous. Some of the party's largest contributors, including his Wall Street friends, financed the Willkie boom and demonstration.

There is no central financial clearing house for the Goldwater drive. Because he says he is only running for re-election to the senate from Arizona, he won't even accept checks for a presidential campaign chest.

Rockefeller is credited with voting appeal in the large states, which cast heavy electoral vote totals. If they are to beat Kennedy, the Republicans desperately need New York. Rockefeller has carried it twice in governor races.

The New York governor is on record for drastic civil rights legislation and action. This would be under-scored as the basis for an appeal to Negro voters in the large cities. In contrast, Goldwater advocates moral persuasion to bring about the equal rights he says can't be attained by legislation. This view is more acceptable in the South.

A part of Rockefeller's task will be to engender the grass roots enthusiasm that has been notably lacking among his party colleagues.

Shakes His Hand

Kennedy Grants Wish Of California Boy

BY DIAL TORGERSON

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—A blind boy stood by the helicopter waiting for President Kennedy. "I'm Fred Korth," said a tall man with a gentle voice, "I'm the Secretary of the Navy."

"How do you do, Mr. Korth," said Joey Renzi, age 11. "Is he coming? Is the President coming?"

"No, not yet," said Korth. "Don't worry. We won't let him get away without seeing you. He wants to meet you."

It was a letter in Braille that Joey wrote to Kennedy which attracted the President's attention. In it, Joey told how he wanted to shake the President's hand because "it wouldn't do me any good to stand on the roadside while all the other kids are watching."

That's how it was that a blind boy was waiting at the Marine Corps recruit depot with the high-ranking officials alongside the helicopter which was to take Kennedy away to an aircraft carrier at sea.

Sight Destroyed

The boy—born prematurely—has been blind virtually all his life. Doctors say an over-rich oxygen mixture in an incubator caused hemorrhages which destroyed his sight.

But he can see a great deal with his hands as he did Thursday, when, in his mind's own bright pictures, he saw the President.

All Joey heard was a big car stop, he felt a large hand reach for his and another touched his shoulder.

He told afterwards what was said: "He said he enjoyed seeing me."

Red Reported Near Recovery From Illness

MOSCOW (AP)—First Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan is reported by his brother to be nearly recovered from a recent illness and almost ready to return to work.

The brother, aircraft designer Artem Mikoyan, told correspondents at a reception Thursday night that a cold Mikoyan caught while welcoming Fidel Castro in snowy Murmansk April 27 developed into kidney trouble and sent him to a hospital.

Bragan Smiling Again After Pair Of Wins Over Mets

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Milwaukee Manager Bobby Bragan smiled Thursday—his Braves had gained a half game in the National League standings while resting.

But there was more to it than that as the Braves traveled here on an open date to begin a four-game series with the Pittsburgh Pirates tonight.

"We're finally getting some runs again," said Bragan as the seventh-place Braves moved to within 5½ games of leaders—the Chicago Cubs and the San Francisco Giants. The Braves moved up as the Cubs beat the Giants to pull into a tie for first.

"If we can keep this up we are in business," said Bragan.

He referred to a pair of victories over the Mets in New York. In winning, the Braves piled up 14 runs, but both games continued the Milwaukee paradox—poor pitching when the Braves score lots of runs and good pitching when they can't score. The Braves won the New York games by scores of 3-2 and 11-9, the second going 10 innings.

Lead Hitting
Hank Aaron and Eddie Mathews continue to lead the Braves at the plate and there are signs that Denis Menke may be on another one of his streaks. Don Dillard has been reasonably consistent and Tommie Aaron has given indications that he sharpened his batting eye in a brief trip to the minors.

Bragan didn't take up the question of his bullpen, where his listed relievers gather in group frustration. Starters Bob Shaw and Lew Burdette were called on to save both the New York victories.

The regular relief corps—Claude Raymond, Ron Piche, Tony Cloninger, Frank Funk and Dan Schneider—has failed to show consistent strength. They lose as often as they win.

Shaw, 2-3, was scheduled to start tonight against Al McBean, 5-1. Burdette will open on Saturday and left-handers Denny Lemaster and Bob Hendley are set to start Sunday's twin bill. Warren Spahn will see action next Monday.

While Bragan has his pitching outlook all set, he had hopes of finding the Pittsburgh mound corps bunched after two straight doubleheaders. Should that be the case the Milwaukee batters may be able to add to their averages and confidence, and widen Bragan's smile.

Mantle More Optimistic Than His Doctor

DALLAS (AP) — The doctor says Mickey Mantle will probably be out of the line-up a "minimum of five weeks" with his injured foot, but the New York Yankee slugger thinks differently.

"I'm sure the doctor knows more about it than I do," Mantle said on his arrival home Thursday night. "But I have an idea it's not as bad as it sounds. I expect to be back in the line-up in three or four weeks."

2 Americans in Semis Of British Tourney

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP) —Two Americans, Dr. Edgar Updegraff, 41-year-old Tucson, Ariz., urologist, and Dr. Ron Lucetti, a 26-year-old Army dentist from San Francisco, now stationed in Germany, won their way into the semifinals of the British Amateur Golf Championship today.

Updegraff, a member of the U.S. Walker Cup team, defeated Dick Sikes of Springdale, Ark., 2 and 1. Lucetti, a real dark horse in the tournament, won from Peter Green of Bath, England, by the same margin in the quarter-finals over the rain-soaked St. Andrews Old Course.

A fourth American, defending champion Dick Davies of Pasadena, Calif., was beaten by Michael Lunt, British Walker Cup star, 1 up, in a quarter-final match that wasn't decided until the last putt on the 18th green.

Updegraff and Lunt will meet in the semifinals this afternoon and Lucetti will play J. G. Blackwell of Scotland, a 2 and 1 winner over David Moffat of England. Lucetti has been the real surprise of this tournament. Unknown in major golf competition, he has played creditably in every match. He won out in a ding-dong quarter-final by shooting par 48 on the 16th and 17th holes after having fallen behind twice during the match.

He squared it with a par 5 on the notorious 560-yard 14th hole then hung on to win as Green shot 6-5-5 on the last four holes. Davies, another unknown when

Orioles Regain League Lead by Posting 4-2 Victory Over Yankees

Senators Stretch Winning Streak by Downing Boston

BY MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer

American League managers were set today to try a new game.

It's played with nine men, but some of your best players have to be seriously injured. First manager to fill out a complete line-up card—without erasures—gets a three-week vacation in a hand-aid factory.

That might provide a welcome rest cure for the harried managers who watched their players mowed down Thursday night off a two-game program which saw Baltimore regain first place by downing the New York Yankees 4-2 and Washington stretch its winning streak to four games by beating Boston 2-1.

The Orioles, except for a fence slightly dented by Mickey Mantle, came out of the three-day war games with the Yankees in good shape. But the Yankees wound up with another wounded member in the series finale that gave the Orioles a 1½-game bulge over the world champions.

Pitcher Jim Boulton, who had a 7-1 record, followed Mantle into a hospital after he was hit in the face by a line drive off the bat of Jack Brandt in the fourth inning. Boulton suffered a cut on the right side of his face and also a severe bruise of the right shoulder.

X rays showed no fracture of either the jaw or the shoulder, but 12 stitches were required to close the 1½-inch gash on his face. Manager Ralph Houk said he was hopeful Boulton could take his regular turn on the mound.

At Washington, Manager Gil Hodges of the Senators lost his hottest hitter when Don Lock was forced to leave the game in the sixth inning. Lock, who had 20 hits in 40 at-bats and four homers in four games, suffered an ankle sprain.

Meanwhile, Red Sox Manager Johnny Pesky came up with two additions to his medical list—pitcher Gene Conley and catcher Russ Nixon. Nixon, who had just won a starting berth, wrenched his back and is scheduled for a session with the doctors today.

Conley's condition, however, concerned Pesky even more. Con-

Cubs and Cards Tie Giants for NL Lead

McDaniel's Homer Wins For Chicago

BY BOB GREEN

The Chicago Cubs, triggered by what head coach Bob Kennedy called "the trade of the year," own a share of the National League lead for the first time in more than five years.

They reached the lofty status Thursday when Larry Jackson and Lindy McDaniel, acquired in an off-season trade with St. Louis, pitched them past San Francisco 3-2 and into a three-way tie for first with the Giants and Cardinals.

It was the first time the lowly Cubbies had been on the top rung since May 7, 1958. And, even though they haven't finished in the first division in 17 years, they're making a determined grab for all the marbles this season.

Their victory, over the Giants was their 11th in 13 games and seventh in 10 starts against San Francisco this year. McDaniel nailed it down with a sparkling relief performance and a 10th inning home run.

Cards Would Agree

Kennedy put the "trade of the year" tag on the swap that brought McDaniel and Jackson to Chicago and sent George Altman and Don Cardwell to St. Louis. The Cardinals probably would agree.

It was Altman's pinch-hit double that drove in the winning run in St. Louis' 5-4 triumph over Philadelphia and lifted the Cards into a share of the top spot. In the only other activity, Cincinnati swept a doubleheader from Pittsburgh 7-5 and 10-5 on the bombing of Frank Robinson and Gordy Coleman.

Jackson, who has a 7-5 record and a sparkling 2.06 earned run average, was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the eighth when the Cubs tied it 2-2 on Billy Williams' two-run homer.

Barney Schultz got into trouble in the top of the tenth and McDaniel came on with the bases loaded and one out. He promptly picked Willie Mays off second base and then struck out Ed Bailey.

He broke up the game with his homer in the bottom of the 10th, winning his second game in as many days. McDaniel now is 3-1.

Foxes' Campbell and Rowden Face Angels In Twin Bill Tonight

Henry King Posts 1.38 ERA for 17 Relief Jobs

BY RALPH MUELLER

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The Fox Cities Foxes fell victim to the weatherman again Thursday night.

The Foxes' contest with the Quad Cities Angels was postponed and will be made up to night as part of a twin bill. Game time for the first 7-inning tilt will be 6:30 p.m.

Another "Family Night" attraction is planned. Each family unit will be admitted to the doubleheader for $1.

Manager Billy DeMars will start rookie Paul Campbell (2-4) and Joe Rowden (1-1). If either should need help, DeMars can call upon a young Pennsylvanian who is fast developing into the best reliever the manager has ever had.

The youthful workhorse is Henry King, from King of Prussia, Pa.

Thus far in 1963, King's left handed slants have puzzled Midwest League batters on all but two occasions—May 16 against Quad Cities and May 29 against Wisconsin Rapids.

He also had a little trouble in one game against Waterloo when he served up a "gopher ball" to the Hawks' Tony Horton. King says it was a "knuckle ball that didn't knuckle."

On 14 other appearances, however, King has been next to fabulous. His total record for the 17 rescue jobs indicates 26 innings of work and a ultra-low, 1.38 earned run average.

King has fanned 26 batters and allowed only seven bases-on-balls. He has allowed only four earned runs and given up only 15 hits.

DeMars credits his excellent control for his success.

It was there that King got to know Curt Simmons, now of the St. Louis Cardinals, and Simmons Henry grew up almost within the shadows of Philadelphia's Connie Mack Stadium and had the opportunity to work out with the Philadelphia Phillies.

Cy Morgan signed King for the Orioles in June, 1962. Three days

Osnkosh Beats Mellen in State Tourney

Alexander. After Chuck Paul struck out, Greg Gauthier singled in the infield to load the bases again and Dennis Neitzel walked to force in the final run.

In the sixth inning, Koplitz singled and stole second. He came home on Alexander's double with Alexander scoring moments later on a double by Schrage.

Tafelski, who had 7-0 mound record for Mellen, pulled a muscle in his shoulder in the pregame warmup and had to be shifted to shortstop. Stan Protokowicz started on the mound and was relieved in the fifth by Irv Kumpula.

Runs Unearned
Madison Central's Dave Lalleu outduelled Vern Geisbert of Richland Center in a battle of 3-hitters. Geisbert deserved better fate as both of Madison's runs were unearned.

An error with two out and the bases loaded in the fifth allowed the first Madison run to score and two errors in the sixth put the second run on third base. Geisbert struck out 7 and walked 2 while Lalleu struck out 6 and walked only 1.

Eau Claire's Jim Stewart missed a no-hitter by inches in leading the Old Ahes over Dodgeville. Pat Reilly heat out a grounder to deep short in the fifth for the only Dodge hit.

Eau Claire jumped on Dick Stephens for four runs in the first inning to salt away the victory. Dodgeville committed three errors in the fatal first.

Players Ejected
Kenosha jumped off to a 5-0 lead over Auburndale and then hung on to win in a wild contest that ended with two Kenosha and one Auburndale player being ejected from the game.

Bill Hansche started for Kenosha and struck out 1 of the first 12 men he faced. After the fourth inning he was moved to center field but had to come back in relief in the seventh and struck out two more to preserve the win.

Mickey Vandehey, Auburndale's star left-hander, pitched the first three innings but had to leave the mound because of a shoulder sore so he could not raise his arm over his head.

He was rocked for a home run in the third by Don Keating with one man on base. Auburndale scored all of its runs in the sixth and seventh innings.

SHERWOOD—High in the rocks of the narrow wooded valley the fire with flint and steel in Indian tradition. With Schmidt acting as master of ceremonies, Stephen Hermes told the story of "How Scouting Came to America in 1910" and Geoffrey Mueller recited the "Poem of the Arrow."

"Tom Kitti Chara," a group of nine Indian Dancers from Kimberly, New London, Appleton and Neenah, performed in Indian ceremonial costumes around the fire.

With the fire crackling and tom-toms pounding out a rhythm, the dancers portrayed a devil with matted, waist-length hair who overcame a young brave. Three medicine men then appeared, restored the brave, and the devil disappeared into the night.

Eagles Dance
"Young Eagle" and "Old Eagle" danced furiously in their feathered array until the young man won their battle.

The dancers also portrayed a two-legged buffalo being pursued by lance-carrying braves. The braves spared the animal to death and did a dance of apology to the animal and a worship whirl to the spirits.

Second Class awards presented during the ceremony went to Gary Funk, Jeffrey Galloway, David Gehl, Alan Larson, Robert Marchesko, Thomas Michels, Thomas Neuville, Mark Schmaltz and Gregory Urban.

Further published comment about the retail sales boom in autos accompanied heavy trading in these issues.

Chrysler, down about 2 points, continued to face profit taking on its tremendous previous advance. Ford was up more than a point, General Motors off a fraction and American Motors and Studebaker advanced fractionally.

Most other groups were irregular but the trend on average was a shade lower. Tobaccos and sugars continued to decline on balance although a few of these recently battered issues came back to the plus side.

Mail order-retail issues and electrical equipments made gains. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 4 at 273.7 with industrials down 4, rails down .1, and utilities down .4.

The rise in unemployment in May and further published reports on tightening credit intensified a note of caution but overall market sentiment remained confident.

While American Tobacco, Liggett & Myers, and Lorillard continued fractionally lower, Philip Morris and Reynolds Tobacco gained fractions.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 1.15 at 725.72. American Stock Exchange prices were mixed in quiet trading.

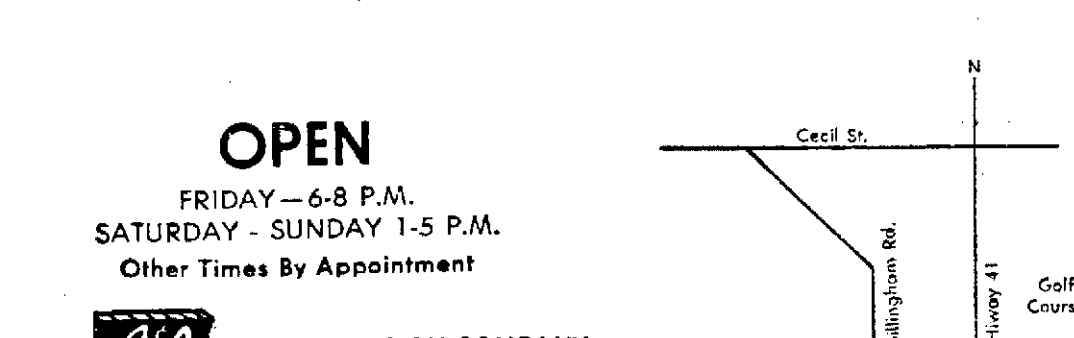

Corporate and U.S. government bonds were mixed.

Outstanding Appleton High School Students Honored at Awards Day

Academic, Athletic Citations Given, Scholarships Presented

Outstanding students at Appleton High School received academic, athletic and extracurricular awards and scholarships at the annual awards day assembly Thursday.

The coveted Craftsmanship Shield, given annually to the outstanding senior, was presented to Michael Liethen, son of Mr. Alois Liethen, by AHS Principal Herbert H. Helble. Liethen was chosen by vote of the faculty. The Craftsmanship Shield has been awarded for more than 40 years for character, scholarship, leadership and service.

Man Fatally Shot, Another Wounded During Race Riot

Police and State Troopers Trying to End Outbreak

LEXINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Tension gripped this North Carolina textile center today in the wake of a race riot that left one white man dead and a newspaper photographer wounded by gunfire.

All available police were called to duty, including about 20 state troopers. Municipal officials said they will ask for National Guardsmen unless the situation eases during the day.

Violence erupted Thursday night on the heels of attempts by Negroes to gain service at segregated cafes, a theater and a bowling alley in the downtown area.

A mob of about 2,000 white men gathered on one side of a street bordering the Negro section of the city of 18,000.

Police Cars Targets

About 100 Negroes assembled on the other side of the street.

Police said the two groups threw rocks, bottles and sticks at each other. Some of the bottles were filled with gasoline.

A Negro girl was struck in the head by a rock. Police cars were pelted with rocks and bottles. Windows were broken in a nearby Negro church.

Then a barrage of shots came from the direction of a Negro apartment building.

Art Richardson, 25, a photographer for the High Point Enterprise, was struck in the back. He collapsed into the arms of a deputy sheriff.

Another shot struck Fred Link, 24, of Lexington. Link died en route to a Winston-Salem hospital. The bullet struck him in the head.

Taken to Hospital

Richardson, father of four children with another on the way, was taken first to Lexington Hospital, then transferred to a High Point hospital for surgery. Attendants there said his condition was "stable and satisfactory."

3 Men Killed in Crash of Car Into Bridge Abutment

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Three men enroute to Canada for fishing died early today when their car struck a bridge abutment and burst into flames on Interstate 90 at the eastern edge of Madison.

Their deaths brought Wisconsin's 1963 traffic toll to 303, compared with 327 on this date a year ago.

Dane County traffic police identified the victims as Everett Sherwood, 48, of Richwood, Ind., believed to be the driver; his son, Roger, 24, also of Richwood; and Robert Keller of New Paris, Ohio.

Authorities said the trio had left home Thursday on a fishing trip to Canada. Their car was towing a trailer containing fishing equipment.

Authorities said Gerald Gjereth, of Black River Falls, a firm, saw the crash and tried to open the car doors. He said he believed the men were alive then but he was driven back by flames as fire engulfed the car and trailer.

Three unidentified teenagers also arrived at about that time and tried to help but were balked by flames.

Roger Thom, 9, of Trimbelle, Pierce County, was killed Thursday evening when struck by a car as he rode a bicycle on Highway 10 within a block of his home.

Kennedy to Visit Britain June 29

IN THE WEST WITH KENNEDY (AP)—President Kennedy will meet with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan for "informal talks" during Kennedy's late June trip to Europe, the White House announced today.

Pierre Salinger, White House Press Secretary, said Kennedy and Macmillan would get together late on June 29, following the President's visit to Ireland. Kennedy then will continue on to Italy on June 30.

Second Cavein Hampers Effort To Reach Victims

PARKERSBURG, W.Va. (AP)—Knee-deep mud and falling rocks, hampered rescuers today trying to reach two men—one alive and in Richardson's aid. Another shot narrowly missed Dick Swain, also a High Point news photographer.

The crowd began dispersing after the shootings, but police brought on fire hoses and scattered those remaining.

Several Negroes were treated for cuts from flying glass. A

Guardsmen in Alabama on Duty Sunday

WASHINGTON (AP)—About 4,000 Alabama National Guardsmen will go on active duty Sunday—only days before the crisis over admission of Negroes to the state university.

The men are members of the 31st Infantry Division, an Alabama-Mississippi guard outfit due to start two weeks of summer training.

Army authorities said the division's training schedule was arranged several months ago and has nothing to do with the crisis.

Nonetheless, whether by coincidence or not, thousands of Alabamians will be in federal Army uniform when three Negroes, with U.S. backing, try to enter the University of Alabama next Tuesday at its Tuscaloosa campus and on Thursday at its Huntsville branch.

There appears a legal question whether guardsmen on training duty can be used to enforce federal court orders.

But Army sources said this is somewhat academic since "they can be federalized with a stroke of the President's pen."

The important thing is that these Alabama National Guardsmen already will have been mustered, if President Kennedy should decide to use them.

Youth and His Dog Disqualified From Going to Badger Boys State

BY DION HENDERSON

MILWAUKEE (AP)—"It's not so much that I feel bad about missing out on a new experience," Tom Tegatz said. "But I hate being disqualified for a reason like that."

Tom is an 18-year-old junior at Watertown High School. He was one of seven Watertown boys selected by a faculty committee to join some 900 other outstanding high school juniors at Badger Boys State, an annual week-long workshop in government sponsored by the Wisconsin Department of the American Legion.

Blindness Bars Him

But after seeing Tom's records, Legion officials changed their minds. "We are extremely sorry," wrote Val Ove, executive secretary of Boys State and former Department Commander of the Legion, to Watertown principal Russell Twesne, "but we are not equipped to handle a boy with such a handicap."

Tom is blind.

Born with an eye defect, he lost his sight completely three years ago. He spent some months at the State School for the Blind in Janesville for training, then with the aid of a guide dog returned to high school.

Principal Twesne recalled Thursday how in those first days Tom and his dog, a Black Labrador called Blackie, came to school early so that they could practice getting around before classes began, and how the two adapted themselves readily to the rush and scurry of a big high school's activity.

With the help of records and friends, Tom caught up with his school work and found time to take part in a speech contest, and attend various school activities—including basketball games.

"The faculty committee picked him," Twesne said simply, "because we think he's a fine boy and deserved to be selected."

Since the rejection, a number of appeals have been made vainly to the Legion. Even the Governor's office became interested in the case.

Len Zubrensky, an aide to Gov. John W. Reynolds, said he had called Ove and explained that since the state does not underwrite the project held on the Ripon College campus, "we couldn't demand that Tom be accepted."

"But I explained to Ove that we would appreciate it, that the Governor would appreciate it, if Tom could be given the opportunity he'd earned."

Request Rejected

Ove sent the Governor a long letter this week rejecting the request, and citing various instances he'd heard of in which blind persons were an inconvenience in large gatherings, where their guide dogs were in unfamiliar surroundings.

"The dog is not acquainted with the Ripon College campus," Ove wrote the Governor, "and we do not have sufficient personnel to assign one of our volunteer staff to handle this one boy."

Pioneers on Mars

Expert Envisions 1st Landing on Red Planet

BY FRANK CAREY

DENVER (AP)—The first United States expeditionary base on the planet Mars may resemble an adobe village of the prehistoric American Southwest or Mexico—with the crude buildings made largely of "local Martian construction materials"—a space scientist said today.

The quaint scene was envisioned by Percy H. Bliss of the Rand Corp. He said that rocks should be available on the Red Planet and that, along with water procurable by condensing the atmosphere, there will might be cement-making materials in the sandy soil, such as limonite, calcium carbonate and sulphur.

Thus, he told a symposium on the exploration of Mars staged by the American Astronautical Society, there would be all the makings for a community of simple construction.

It might even be possible to manufacture Martian-brand cinder blocks, he said.

Rocks, either picked up on the surface, or tapped from bedrock with explosives, could be shaped for construction work with "laser guns," he added.

Bliss said the first adventurers to reach the planet would have to make all possible use of indigenous Martian materials to cut down on cargo-hauling from the earth.

But, building of the Martian adobe would be preceded by the following shelter facilities:

When the spaceship first touched down on the new world, the astronauts might expand their cramped capsule living quarters by inflating a "rubber-fabric room" already attached to one end of spacecraft.

Lined all around with a layer of plastic foam, this huge, balloon-like room would keep the men comfy against the cold—150 below—Martian nights.

Later, when they got organized, and became accustomed to moving about on the low-gravity planet, they would perhaps erect prefabricated buildings made of aluminum, steel, wood or plastic.

Problem for Macmillan

Scandal Involves Security

BY RAYMOND E. PALMER

LONDON (AP)—A beautiful redhead's simultaneous affairs with the British secretary of state for war and a Soviet naval attaché posed a new security headache today for Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

The redhead is 22-year-old Christine Keeler, who also numbered two West Indian Negroes among her lovers and was termed a call girl in parliamentary debate.

In a copyrighted interview in the Daily Express today she said she saw Secretary of State for War John Profumo once or twice a week for several months in 1961—when she was 19 and he was 46.

She said Soviet Cmdr. Yevgeny (Eugene) Ivanov, former assistant naval attaché in London, "was also a friend of mine at the time I was going with Jack (Profumo)." Ivanov is now believed, however, to have been an intelligence agent.

Gunman Robs Oshkosh Tavern

Armed Robber Takes $566 From Bar, Wore Red Bandanna

OSHKOSH—A masked gunman held up Butch's Tavern, 201 Wisconsin St., at closing time this morning and escaped with about $566 in currency and change. He reportedly was armed with a .45 caliber military-type pistol.

Owner Harold Youngwirth was locking up when the gunman entered. Two patrons also were in the tavern. They were Clarence Plotz, 1133 Cherry St., and Harold Trout, 14 E. New York Ave.

The robber was described as between 25 and 30 years old, five feet eight inches tall and weighing between 135 and 160 pounds. He was wearing a pair of dungarees and a wide belt. Color of his clothing was not known.

Red Bandanna

The lower portion of his face was covered with a red bandanna, and he was wearing a stocking cap.

According to Youngwirth, he had turned off all the lights in the tavern except the night safety light when the gunman entered through the front door.

Asks for Money

The man tossed Youngwirth a bag similar to a small flour sack and ordered him to "throw all the paper bills in the bag." The gunman then asked for the money kept in a side drawer.

Before leaving, the gunman told the three "I would hate to kill one of you guys; this thing makes a big hole. He then ordered the trio to kneel on the floor and then to lie flat. He told them "Give me five minutes and it better be five minutes," and then left.

The boy's mother said she heard one of the children cry out, and found Marshall face down in only inches of water. Physicians at a Woodruff hospital worked 90 minutes in an unsuccessful attempt to revive him.

Larry Patterson, 7, of rural Whitewater drowned Thursday when he apparently stepped into deep water at Whitewater's Tripp Lake municipal swimming beach, not yet officially opened for the season. Larry could not swim.

Legislature Recesses

Until June 18 to Let

Committee Map Figures

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON—The Republican majority leadership of the legislature has made a slight overture toward settling the state capitol's finance-tax deadlock, but there is yet no assurance that Gov. John W. Reynolds will relent sufficiently to make a bargain with the men who run the legislative branch of the state government he heads.

Speaker Robert Haase of the assembly announced last night after a protracted caucus of the assembly Republicans that the legislature would be in recess all of next week, until Tuesday, June 18, to give the joint finance committee time to work out a level of proposed budget spending for the next two years that suits the Republican majority party.

That substitute budget total, which will almost surely fall short by many millions of dollars of Reynolds' own budget, will then be shown to him as a token of Republican good faith in negotiation for a fiscal settlement, he said.

Then the governor will be expected to show his good faith, in turn, by moving to negotiate for a settlement of his differences with the Republicans on a new revenue bill to finance the budget for the next two years, Haase said.

But Haase said he has had no sign thus far that the governor is willing to compromise on his hitherto adamant anti-sales tax stand.

No Official Action

The assembly leader said the preparation of a Republican substitute budget is intended to meet the governor's objection that the Republicans are privately resolved to cut departmental expenditures in a hurtful way.

The Republicans would not adopt the budget; they would merely prepare it for legislative consideration, and then hold it pending some agreement with Reynolds on how to finance it.

Whether such a maneuver will bring any response from the governor is not certain. Haase made it clear in a news conference that, for himself, he is not optimistic.

"There has been no indication that the governor has changed his position," he said, as he also flatly denied that there have been any secret discussions with the Democratic executive as reported this week.

Drownings Take Lives of 2 Boys

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two children drowned Thursday in separate water accidents.

Marshall Galina, 11 months, drowned in Squaw Lake in the town of Minocqua while playing on the beach with three small companions. The boy was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Galina, who operate a resort on the lake.

The boy's mother said she heard one of the children cry out, and found Marshall face down in only inches of water. Physicians at a Woodruff hospital worked 90 minutes in an unsuccessful attempt to revive him.

Reynolds Talks Of Compromise On State Taxes

Refuses to Detail On How Far He Is Prepared to Go

MADISON (AP)—Gov. John W.

Reynolds indicated Thursday that he is prepared to go along with a tax compromise, but he failed to say how far he would go.

"Republicans know I cannot sign a general sales tax bill and will not sign it," Reynolds told more than 100 schoolmen who met with him to urge passage of a state budget and tax program to assure continuance of school aids.

Prior to meeting with Reynolds, the group buttonholed Republican legislators to make the same plea. They came to Madison on call of District Five of the Wisconsin Association of School District Administrators.

Asks Income Tax Boost

A tax compromise, Reynolds said, will have "maybe an increase in income taxes and some increase in excise taxes."

An excise tax is really a sales tax by another name.

"We assure you, governor, that there is no dishonor in compromise," Delmore Zirzow, clerk of the Alma Board of Education, told the governor.

In Reynolds' own tax bill, killed by the Assembly, he proposed the addition of one per cent to income tax rates and repeal of the selective sales tax. But he included "excise taxes" on autos, beer, liquor and cigarettes.

Charles Hub of Shawano, association president, said he thought

Detergents Ban Bill Returned to Senate

MADISON (AP)—A bill that would ban the sale of most household detergents in Wisconsin was sent back to the Senate without recommendation Thursday by the Legislature's Joint Finance Committee.

The proposal was backed by two dozen senators when it was introduced 10 weeks ago, but support dulled after a hearing before the Senate Public Welfare Committee.

There was one new proposal offered in the Assembly Thursday. It was presented by Assemblyman David Martin, R-Neenah, and called for an interim study and report to the 1965 Legislature on the representation on county boards.

Approved by the Assembly was a measure to require uniform threat fittings on all fire fighting hoses within five years.

Reynolds Talks Of Compromise On State Taxes

Won't Go Into Details
Dale F. Davis of Sparta, president-elect of the association, sought more information on a tax compromise. Could it include an income tax increase, possibly a surtax, and a selective sales tax earmarked for education asked.

"I'm not prepared to make a public statement at this time on those matters," Reynolds said. "But they all are under consideration."

At this point Kermit Veum of Westby said he at least among the group opposed a sales tax and urged Reynolds not to compromise on one.

Richard Olson of Mineral Point got in the last word before Reynolds adjourned the meeting. "The school board, the municipal and county officials and civic groups all want me to ask you to compromise on taxes," he said.

Throughout the meeting, Reynolds and the delegation were in agreement that there must be no cutting of school aids and the governor stressed the need of increased aids.

Girl's Bikini Stolen From Shop, Owner Says

LONDON (AP) — Store owner Henri Ballaperriere told Magistrate's Court the bikini on 16-year-old Christine Collman at a suburban swimming pool had been stolen from his shop three months ago.

"It is the only one of its kind," Henri testified Thursday. He said he spotted it when he went swimming recently.

Christine's mother testified she bought the swimming togs from a street peddler.

"I thought they were a good bargain though at the time I had an idea they might be rejects," she said.

The magistrate acquitted Mrs. Collman of knowingly receiving stolen goods.

Jobless Rate Shows Hike During May

WASHINGTON (AP)—A flood of teen-agers looking for jobs boosted total unemployment in May up two-tenths of one per cent to 5.9 per cent. Total employment also was up one million over April to 69.1 million.

Unemployment among teen-agers climbed from 16 per cent in April to 18 per cent in May. This was the highest jobless level for teen-agers since the Bureau of Labor Statistics began keeping figures on a seasonal basis in 1949.

The total unemployment figure in May remained at the same 4.1 million level it held in April, but was 350,000 over May 1962.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, in a statement released Thursday with the figures, said the figures reflect a critical situation, a situation which could develop into one of the most explosive social problems in the nation's history.

The teen-age unemployment problem, Wirtz said, "is complicated by the big increase in population in this age group, and the declining number of unskilled jobs in today's labor market."

Catholic Schools Said to Cut Taxes $2.5 Billion Yearly

WASHINGTON (AP) — Roman Catholic Church officials said today elementary and secondary Catholic schools are saving the nation's taxpayers more than $2.5 billion a year.

In Pennsylvania alone, said the National Catholic Welfare Conference, "Catholic parents . . . have saved their fellow taxpayers almost $2 billion between 1951 and 1961 by footing the bills for the education of half a million pupils in Catholic schools."

The NCWC speaks for the Roman Catholic hierarchy of the United States.

The figures were included in a bulky package of press releases designed to explain the size, growth, complexity and problems of the Catholic schools.

The NCWC made no mention of federal aid for parochial schools, although church leaders have been making strong efforts for some time to obtain such aid.

If the nation's 13,000-plus Catholic elementary and secondary schools closed down, the NCWC said, it "would require the construction of some 180,000 new classrooms; teacher salaries alone would add another $900 million to the tax burden annually."

Don't Take Oral Troubles to Yugoslavia — No Anesthesia

Chicago Daily News Service

WASHINGTON — "Is it possible to have your teeth repaired without suffering?"

A Chicago dental surgeon says this question was asked him repeatedly during a recent visit to Yugoslavia.

Local anesthesia is available, said Dr. Joseph Ruzic, but the Yugoslavian scientists are very short of supplies for providing deeper anesthesia.

All of these have to be imported, he said, and the country does not have the foreign currency to buy them.

"In one surgical operation I watched on a man's jaw," said Dr. Ruzic, "the man's legs were tied to keep him from squirming."

The United States could make a lot of friends, he suggested, if it would provide the Yugoslavs with the necessary supplies for anesthesia.

Dr. Ruzic and his wife, Ida, passed through Washington yesterday en route home to Chicago. He is one of a 14-member team of Serbo-Croat speaking dentists and doctors who displayed various aspects of American medicine and medical care at two exhibits.

Sponsored by the United States Information Agency, they were held in Zagreb and Belgrade.

"We had the biggest crowds around the dental exhibits," said the doctor. "We gave out loads of dental floss, which is unknown in Yugoslavia."

He also gave new hope to Yugoslavians with pyorrhea, with archbishop of Canterbury has conducted such a service for the head of another church.

demonstrations on how to combat it. "They had believed that there was no hope if they got it, and that they would simply have to have their teeth removed."

Portugal Now Ready to Meet With Africans

LISBON, Portugal (AP)—Portugal is ready to meet representatives of African governments, both here and in Africa "to examine with them a dynamic plan of development in Africa."

Foreign Minister Alberto Franco Nogueira told a news conference Thursday.

This was the first public indication that the Salazar government was prepared to meet African leaders who in their recent Addis Ababa conference called for a fight against all colonialism in Africa.

Portuguese officials have up to now rejected as interference in Portugal's internal affairs efforts by other nations to raise questions on the Portuguese administration of Angola, Mozambique, and other areas in Africa.

Tennessee City Will Open Public Places to Negroes, Mayor Says

CLARKSVILLE, Tenn. (AP) —

Clarksville's City Council has authorized desegregation of all public park facilities, Mayor Charles Crow indicated Thursday night.

After a closed session of the council, Crow said it had authorized him to say that all park facilities are open to the public, effective last Saturday. He declined to comment further and would not say why the action was retroactive.

The action affects three public swimming pools, about 10 baseball and softball fields, grills and hiking paths.

Clarksville's theaters and schools and most public eating facilities have already been desegregated.

GOP to Draft Own Budget For Reynolds

lander of Rosendale will lead the committee in nailing together a GOP substitute biennial spending program next week, confirmed Haase's gloomy diagnosis.

"I don't think the governor wants to compromise," he told reporters last night.

Haase also indicated that the Republicans are not particularly worried about the approach of July 1 and the end of the state's fiscal year, which will require some spending adjustments in agencies unless there is a new appropriation law written by that time.

"That is not a magic date," he said. "The world won't come to an end if we don't arrive at a settlement on that date exactly."

Republicans have previously said that they regarded their earlier approval of a sales tax extension bill, vetoed by the governor, as an indication of their willingness to raise the level of state spending. That bill would have boosted state revenues by $142 million for the next two years, which would have been considerably short of what the governor wanted. But it would be a generous figure, against the cut of 15 per cent or more which is in prospect from the present spending levels if a new tax program is not agreed upon. The prospect of such cuts has provoked the deepest consternation in the state capital in many years.

Court Awards Boy To Father's Custody

BOSTON (AP)—A father has been given custody of his son, 8, who lighted matches in a Boston hotel room a few hours before a pre-dawn fire spread from the room March 29, killing four persons and injuring 26 others.

The father is Frank Zach of Brooklyn, N. Y., studying to be an opera singer. The mother is Evelyn Keller Zach, 41, an actress in the road company of "Sound of Music."

The court said it had not been established, beyond a reasonable doubt, that the boy set the fatal fire.

It cleared the boy of delinquency, but issued a complaint against the mother, charging neglect of a minor child. It gave the father custody Thursday.

Burial Services For Unidentified Boy in Illinois

McHENRY, Ill. (AP)—A small group of white persons attended graveside services Thursday for an unidentified Negro boy.

The boy's body was found last April 24 in the Fox River near this Northern Illinois community of about 2,000. Officials were unable to learn the identity of the boy, about 7 years old, or the details of his death.

His body, wrapped in a red chenille bedspread, was found in the river below the McHenry dam in the Chain O'Lakes State Park. After an autopsy, death was attributed to bronchial pneumonia.

The graveside services in Ostend cemetery were conducted because several people in McHenry County wanted the child to have a decent burial. McHenry and Dundee townships provided the funeral costs and the graves were recited by three McHenry ministers from the Methodist, Presbyterian and Baptist churches in McHenry.

The boy's coffin was covered with a bouquet sent by a woman from nearby Richmond. Peter Justin, a McHenry undertaker, attended with three McHenry teen-age boys who volunteered to be the pallbearers.

Negotiators Agree On U. S. and Russian Teletype Circuit

GENEVA (AP) — U.S. and Soviet negotiators have agreed on all technical details of a hot line teletype writer circuit between Washington and Moscow, disarmament conference sources said Thursday.

The agreement was reached after 18 private meetings of American and Soviet telecommunication experts between May 6 and June 4.

Conference sources said the U.S. government has approved the agreement, but formal approval is pending.

Davidson County Sheriff Homer Lee Cox asked the state Highway Patrol for aid. Twenty troopers were dispatched from Greensboro, 30 miles away.

The attempt by Negroes to gain some measure of integration, apparently was the first here since the South-wide movement began started Wednesday night. They were refused service in some instances but served in others.

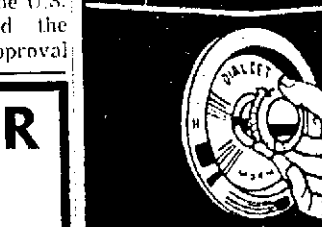

The violence here overshadowed a mass demonstration at Greensboro, where 287 Negroes were arrested after they sat down in a midtown street intersection in protest of segregation policies.

That demonstration followed the arrest earlier Thursday of Jesse Jackson, 21-year-old student body president at North Carolina A&T College and one of the leaders of a month-long drive to break racial barriers. Jackson was charged with inciting a riot after he had a similar sitdown in front of the City Hall Wednesday night. He refused to post $1,000 bail.

Expect Byrnes To Make Plans Known in Fall

Lawmaker May Enter Presidential Primary In State in 1964

BY RICHARD P. Powers
WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Wis., is expected to announce next fall that he will be a candidate in the 1964 Wisconsin presidential primary.

Sources close to the situation say his announcement probably will come Oct. 19 at Green Bay at an "appreciation night" testimonial to Byrnes.

Byrnes has urged Wisconsin Republicans to consider carefully whether they wish to use the favorite-son approach to the party's national convention next year.

This is not the time, Byrnes has said, to commit Republicans in the state to an individual candidate in the presidential primary.

Nevertheless, it is expected that Byrnes will enter the primary as a candidate in response to a request from the state's 72 Republican county chairmen.

State Primary

Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Wis., who has been urging Byrnes to enter the Wisconsin primary, insists his entry should not be merely on a favorite-son basis.

"I am proposing that John Byrnes enter his name as a candidate for the nomination, period. Not as a favorite son candidate," Laird said.

His purpose in urging Byrnes to run, Laird said, is not to keep any other potential GOP candidate out of the state's primary. These would include Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York, Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona and Gov. George Romney of Michigan.

March Deadline

Actually, Laird said, he seriously doubts that Rockefeller or Goldwater will have announced formally whether they will be candidates by the March 3, 1964 deadline for entering the Wisconsin primary.

Laird said the only Republican who has announced he will enter state primaries next year is Harold Stassen, former governor of Minnesota and now a Philadelphia lawyer.

Laird said he was a delegate pledged to Stassen at the 1948 convention which chose New York's Thomas E. Dewey. But, he said, he would consider it "a travesty" to send the Wisconsin 30-man delegation to the 1964 convention pledged to Stassen.

Best Equipped

"My purpose is to propose John Byrnes for the nomination and not keep any person out of the Wisconsin primary," Laird said.

"I believe Byrnes is the best equipped possible candidate for the Republican nomination by temperament, experience and ability of anyone on the horizon. He has the most responsible Republican job in Congress outside of House Republican Leader Charlie Halleck of Indiana."

Byrnes is chairman of the House Republican Policy Committee and is senior Republican on the House Ways and Means Committee.

Laird contends that decisions of Republican policy in the last few years have been made in the House and not in the Senate.

"The House is the battleground where we hammer out policy on such things as fiscal matters and taxation," Laird said.

Admiral Says U.S. Carriers Aren't Worthless as Weapons System

Answers Those Criticizing Flatop Program Because of Overflights by Russian Planes

BY BEN PRICE
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy's top airman said today Russian planes — and any first rate Sea Scout — could pretty well locate any U.S. aircraft carrier in peacetime and the Navy couldn't care less.

But there was one point in the interview Vice Adm. William A. Schoech, deputy chief of naval operations for air, wanted to make quite clear.

"Anytime the U.S. Navy doesn't want one of its carriers found, nobody finds it.

Schoech said he was fed up with people who have concluded that because Russian bombers have flown over U.S. carriers six times in the last year, the carrier is now worthless as a weapon.

In the latest incident six twin-jet medium range Russian bombers flew over the carrier Ranger 330 miles east of Japan last Tuesday.

"We made no attempt to classify the going and coming of our ships," Schoech said. "We do this deliberately because if we practiced security movements we would be giving the Russians the best possible exercise in coping with us in wartime.

"We do our best," he continued, "not to give away our wartime patterns. There is a real danger in going into war when your opponent has all the dope on you."

The admiral pointed out that the Ranger was traveling non-stop from Japan to the United States via the northern Great Circle route, that thousands of people in Japan and the United States knew when she was leaving and when she was arriving and that she was making no effort to maintain radio silence.

"Any good Sea Scout with a plotting board and a radio sitting at home could have located her," the admiral said.

"But," he added, "when we keep our electronic mouths shut, they can't find us."

This business of Russians flying over carriers is all very friendly on the surface, with both sides wagging wings and waving.

Deadly Species

Briefly, it is a form of electronic warfare in which each side tries to determine the efficiency and range of the other's detection devices, the characteristics of the electronic counter-measures and even the counter-counter-measures.

Schoech characterized it as a "cat and mouse game," one in which the United States has declined to play.

Even so, he hinted ever so slightly that it is a game in which the United States is learning far more about the efficiency of Soviet devices than vice versa.

What goes on in this field of electronic warfare is so sensitive to the nation's security that some of the very top people in government have asked that they be kept in ignorance of advances lest they let something slip inadvertently.

In any event, there are certain reporters in this town who know roughly at what range the Navy can detect, track and destroy hostile aircraft — and it is farther than the 100 miles at which Ranger aircraft began "escorting" the Russian bombers.

These reporters know, too, of Navy orders that hostile action on the part of approaching Soviet bombers — evasive action, activation of radar blinding gear, opening of bomb doors — is to be met with hostile action.

Gear Shut Down

On flyovers of the sort practiced by the Soviets, incidentally, a good bit of the electronic gear aboard a carrier is shut down. No point in giving away secrets for free.

From time to time, just for example, Soviet and U.S. fighters have been known to intrude into hostile territory briefly or to make bee line flights which might be interpreted on radar as an intent to intrude.

The purpose of these flights is to estimate the range of the enemy's detection equipment and the reaction of the edfnsiv forces, both ground and air.

"I think it is unfortunate that there are those who keep pecking away at things like this through ignorance," Schoech said of those who feel the Soviet flights spell the end of the carrier as an effective weapon.

He denied that carriers were dangerously vulnerable.

"We are talking about degrees of vulnerability," he said. "Certainly a big air base on land which cannot be moved and which can be pinpointed is vulnerable. If you could pin a carrier down to an operating area of, say, a hundred miles, it would be just about as vulnerable as a big air base.

"But you don't — and you can't now program a ballistic missile to hit a carrier."

Foundation to Offer UW $500,000 to Build School of Architecture

ELKHART LAKE (AP) — The Wisconsin Architects Foundation announced Thursday it will offer the University of Wisconsin a half million dollars to go with an impending request for establishment of an accredited school of architecture at the university.

The foundation said the $500,000 would be offered to underwrite the first five years of school operation. In addition, the foundation said it would establish a curriculum at its own expense and provide a nucleus of an architectural library.

The foundation said it would donate $10,000 of its own funds and conduct a campaign to raise the balance.

The plans were announced at the foundation's annual meeting, which ended Thursday.

Carl Kuhn Held In Jail; Trial Set for July 10

CHILTON — A Town of Harrison man denied two counts of illegally operating a junk yard when he appeared Thursday before Judge D. H. Sebra in Calumet County Court.

Carl Kuhn, 50, route 2, Hilbert, was arrested Wednesday by Sheriff C. J. Kosmosky and was held in jail overnight. Warrants issued by District Atty. F. J. Schmieder charge Kuhn with a state statute violation by operating a junk yard within 750 feet of a state trunk highway. The second count charges Kuhn with violating the county zoning ordinance by operating a junk yard on land designated as agricultural in the zoning ordinance.

Trial was set for July 10 and Kuhn was released after posting $150 bond.

Zoning Ordinance

The county ordinance violation is a continuation of an earlier court action. Kuhn was arrested several months ago for violation of the county zoning ordinance in regard to the junkyard.

He was granted an indefinite adjournment while attempting to have the zoning designation on the property changed to permit the scrap operation.

However, on April 18 the Calumet County Park Commission, serving in its dual capacity as county zoning board, denied Kuhn's petition and ordered the premises cleaned up within 30 days. Kuhn has allegedly failed to heed the order.

The junkyard is located along State 55, about two miles south of Sherwood.

Kennedy Sees New Weapons

IN THE WEST WITH KENNEDY (AP)—The Navy trundles out its latest land and air weapons today in a final show for President Kennedy before he starts concentrating on politics and civil rights.

Kennedy was to see the Navy's climactic display at the China Lake, Calif., testing station after flying there from the attack carrier Kitty Hawk via the Point Mugu, Calif., missile base.

After China Lake, the next stop on Kennedy's five-day, five-state itinerary was Los Angeles and a lavish dinner party tonight for the Democratic party contributors in the $1,000 class.

Saturday Kennedy will drop in at a breakfast for lady Democrats in Los Angeles before flying to Honolulu to cap his fast-moving tour with a civil rights address at a conference of American mayors.

Killian Sentenced For Swearing Falsely

CHICAGO (AP)—Former Milwaukee labor leader John J. Killian, convicted in 1956 of falsely swearing that he was not a Communist, was sentenced Thursday to one year in prison and placed on five years probation.

Killian, 38, whose sentencing was delayed by appeals that went as high as the U.S. Supreme Court, had been recently attending school, receiving a bachelor of science degree from the University of Wisconsin four months ago.

Killian has been a trustee of Local 1111 of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers Union in Milwaukee. As such he had been required by the Taft-Hartley Act to affirm that he had no Communist Party affiliations.

He was convicted of signing the affidavit falsely and also was found to have associated with Party.

Local Officials Appear Before Aeronautics Board in Madison

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — A delegation of Outagamie County officials today told the State Aeronautics Commission if it decides to support the idea of a regional airport to serve the Outagamie County-Winnipeg County market, that airport should be the new Outagamie County Airport planned for construction in the Town of Greenville.

The county officers with many others of other localities attended a hearing called to advise the state agency on the position it should take, on behalf of the state government, on the regional airport concept which is being considered by the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Attending also was a delegation representing Winnebago County, prepared to argue that Oshkosh should be the regional airport for the central Fox River Valley. A Brown County presentation was scheduled on behalf of Austin Straubel Field, which according to the commission agenda may become the regional airport serving the Green Bay and Clintonville district.

Controversial Proposals

Some of the other regional airport proposals will be controversial, including a proposed north central Wisconsin facility near Wausau to serve several of the principal cities in the Wisconsin River Valley.

A. W. Ponath, Outagamie County corporation counsel, argued that it would be premature for the state commission to take a position on regional airport policy until all the evidence has been received by the CAB, which is holding a general hearing on the Wisconsin situation in Wausau in July.

Outagamie County is prepared to prove at that time that it should have a regional airport designation for Outagamie County-Oshkosh if the regional concept is incorporated into CAB policy, he said.

Asks Delay on Position

Ponath explained the Outagamie County service area would include Neenah and Menasha and environs, which compose "the richest and most populous part of Winnebago County."

To make the Winnebago County Airport adequate for regional service in the future would be inordinately expensive and would include the re-routing of State 25, Ponath said, adding that the construction of the Outagamie County Airport at the new site would cost less.

Ponath said the state commission should avoid taking a position now for or against Outagamie County, pending the outcome of the CAB hearing.

Use of New London Park in Question

Residents Against Turning Area Into Baseball Field

NEW LONDON — Baseball diamonds and playground equipment for Abraham Park is the question the city council is being asked to resolve.

The council representative from the boys league asked Monday for assistance in moving in sand and black dirt into the soil to make a firm surface for the two baseball diamonds at the park. The council asked Arthur Gesse, street superintendent, to assist them in the program.

Citizens from the area appeared Tuesday and asked the council who would be responsible if any children are injured or any homes damaged in that area.

Mrs. Robert Dehlinger, one of the residents present, said that she had understood that the council was sponsoring the program and felt that therefore the city would be liable in the event of any damage or injury. Richard Berglund, chairman of the park board, told her the city did not sponsor the program.

The other complaint against using the park for ball diamonds was the dirt resulting from the un-sod park. Clayton Brown, another resident asked if there was any provision made for seeding the park next year.

He also said that if there was enough money in the contingency fund to donate $300 to the boys league, there was enough money in the fund for seed this year. He was told that no money was in the budget this year and no provisions could be made until they work on next year's budget.

For Playground Use
Berglund told the group that until the boys league asked to use the park for baseball the city had planned to leave it as it was. He also said that at the present time the park board has only one piece of extra playground equipment available.

He told the council that he had been contacted by Abraham, who donated the park to the city about one year ago, and he told him that he had donated the park to be used as a playground.

Up until the time the boys league decided to use the park for baseball, the park was not entirely filled in and had not been leveled off. The council had not included anything in the 1963 budget to do any work on the park or to seed it.

Berglund told the council he would contact the president of the boys league to see what arrangements could be made.

ing airline expense and maximizing revenues."

Another major factor stressed in the rebuttal is that the driving distance to each airport from the communities in the Fox River Valley area indicates that the new Outagamie County Airport is more conveniently located to airline passengers in Appleton, Menasha, Kaukauna, Kimberly, Little Chute and Neenah.

The Oshkosh airport, on the other hand, is closer to passengers in Oshkosh, Waupun, Ripon, Berlin and Fond du Lac.

The brief points out that the cities more proximate to Appleton are experiencing a greater rate of population growth.

Cities in the "Appleton area" of the region (the six Fox Cities listed above) have experienced a population growth from approximately 90,300 in 1950 to approximately 100,000 in 1960, an increase of some 25,500 persons, or 34.2 per cent.

Lesser Growth

The "Oshkosh area" cities (also listed above) have experienced a population growth from approximately 90,300 in 1950 to about 99,300 in 1960, an increase of about 9,000, or 9.9 per cent.

The brief goes on to point out that the new Outagamie County Airport will more conveniently serve the majority of airline passengers in the region.

The "Appleton area" cities (with their 99,979 population) have counted 1,627 passengers, or 162.7 Central Airline passengers loaded last November at the two airports from those communities generating more than 1 per cent of the passenger total.

Appleton enplaned 332 at Oshkosh and 363 at its own airport for 28 per cent, while Oshkosh residents totaled 554 passengers at Oshkosh and three at Appleton, or 23 per cent of the total.

Menasha had 4 per cent of the passenger total, divided 73 enplaning at Oshkosh and 30 at Appleton. Fond du Lac supplied 9 per cent, Berlin, 1 per cent, Green Lake, 2 per cent and Ripon, 4 per cent of the passenger total.

From other communities came 6.5 per cent of the total November passenger load from the two airports, 139 getting on at Oshkosh and 38 at Appleton.

Driving times in minutes to the two airports from the various communities in the area, with the Winnebago County Airport listed first and the proposed Outagamie County airport second, are: Appleton, 31 and 13; Berlin, 32 and 48; Fond du Lac, 23 and 42; Green Lake, 31 and 54; Menasha, 26 and 18; Neenah, 23 and 15; Oshkosh, 9 and 22; and Ripon, 22 and 46 minutes.

The weighted average driving time of passengers from these various communities, weighted according to the passengers being generated from those communities, shows the driving time would be 22.4 minutes to the Winnebago County Airport and 21.2 minutes to the Outagamie County proposed airport, or a difference of 1.2 minutes in favor over the Outagamie County Airport.

The Outagamie brief says, "Based upon similar assumption (but including Clintonville passengers because of proximity and assumed increases in service at Appleton), the region served through the new Outagamie County Airport, on a forecasted basis, will produce 17.1 per cent greater number of passengers, or some 44,065.

"In addition," the rebuttal states, "it can be concluded that since the population of the Appleton area is growing at a more rapid rate than the Oshkosh area, and the greater number of enplaned passengers actually originate in the Appleton area, long-term forecasts will indicate an increasing requirement for the regional airline service to be established at the new Outagamie County Airport.

Commercial Revenue
The exhibit contains an estimate that the Outagamie airport will increase commercial revenue for North Central by $134,486.

The contention is made by taking the 37,647 passengers predicted for Oshkosh with their revenues would make a total of $538,306, while the 44,065 prediction for the Outagamie County Airport and their accompanying revenues would make a total of $672,792.

The exhibit then points out that the reduction in break-even need by serving the area through the new Outagamie County Airport will be $100,000 greater than by serving the area through the Oshkosh airport.

Finally, the Outagamie County rebuttal brief quotes D. F. May, assistant treasurer of North Central Airlines, in his report "Use It or Lose It" and the Regional Airport Subcommittee in the report titled "Report of the Local Service Committee on the President's Transportation Message" which says:

Regional Airport
"The regional airport must be close to the major traffic generating point in the area. Many of the areas under consideration do not have an airport that is reasonably convenient to all the points involved.

"The best site of the regional airport may require the construction of a new airport at a central location between the cities. The high cost of modern airports makes this an expensive proposition. Also, the civic pride of the individual cities often makes them reluctant to join in an enterprise which involves abandonment of their own airport for local service. . . . An informal meeting with the communities involved would be useful in showing them the advantages of a new airport to serve the entire area. . . .

and 4 1/2 minutes on Milwaukee flights. Appleton has a four minute lower air time than Oshkosh on Minneapolis flights.

The Winnebago County rebuttal exhibits list $1.40 saving in the fare cost of Oshkosh over Appleton on Chicago trips and $1.60 for Milwaukee trips. Oshkosh flights to Wausau have a 45 cent higher fare and to Minneapolis have a 75 cent higher fare cost than Appleton passengers to those two cities.

Neenah Passengers

Neenah's 670 passengers loaded at Oshkosh and 31 at Appleton account for 29 per cent of the North Central Airline passengers loaded last November at the two airports from those communities generating more than 1 per cent of the passenger total.

Appleton enplaned 332 at Oshkosh and 363 at its own airport for 28 per cent, while Oshkosh residents totaled 554 passengers at Oshkosh and three at Appleton, or 23 per cent of the total.

Menasha had 4 per cent of the passenger total, divided 73 enplaning at Oshkosh and 30 at Appleton. Fond du Lac supplied 9 per cent, Berlin, 1 per cent, Green Lake, 2 per cent and Ripon, 4 per cent of the passenger total.

As Negroes Move North

In 1900, Negroes made up 35 per cent of the population of seven southern states. Today there is only one state—Mississippi—with this high a percentage. The reason is not that the white population increase has outstripped that of the Negro. Instead, the answer can be found in the changes in percentages in northern and western states.

In 1900, virtually every state above the old Mason-Dixon line had less than five per cent Negro population, and in many—like Wisconsin—the percentage was so small as to show hardly at all. Today California, Wyoming, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Michigan as well as most eastern states have between five per cent and 25 per cent Negro population.

Some northerners, shocked by the violence in Oxford and Birmingham, have been complacent—and wrong—about an alleged lack of discrimination in the North. It is true that some southern states are fighting the integration while in the North there are at least no laws or ordinances establishing segregation, but too often the northern attitude is lip service only. To some Negroes, the discrimination is all the more insidious because it is unacknowledged and subtle.

Like every other community in the North of any size, the Fox Cities must face the fact that their Negro population will rise. Efforts to discourage Negroes will result not in the quantity who move in but very likely the quality. The better educated Negro who can contribute substantially to the life of the community will be more likely to go where he feels welcome than his poor cousin who knows he won't be welcome anywhere.

There are several ways in which the increase of Negroes can be met. One is by ignoring the statistics, by undercover efforts to keep Negroes out, by unstated but apparent attempts to restrict housing, schools and recreational facilities. The usual result of this is racial violence—and retaliation by both sides in an atmosphere of hate and guilt.

Another way is to insist that an increase in members of another race presents no problem at all. This ignores the difference in education, living standards, job opportunities and customs which have come about through decades of discrimination. The result here is disillusionment on both sides and the gradual growth of an invisible wall between the races which means more discrimination, more segregation and more eventual pressures toward prejudice and violence.

A third way in which northern communities have faced the problem is to look at it realistically with a clear understanding of the responsibilities of all races to work toward solutions. This method enlists the leadership abilities of church men and women, business men, school authorities, real estate associations, city and county officials, news media, to determine the problems that lie ahead and how they are to be met with fairness to all. Recognizing that there will be crises to meet, prejudice to break down, fears to allay and rights to uphold of all races involved is the first step toward solving the tremendous problems in this change in our communities.

So far in Wisconsin, outside of Milwaukee, there has been little effort to figure out ways of meeting the problem. Wisconsin's Legislature attempted to ignore it by refusing to pass a mild fair-housing bill this spring. If we cannot expect enlightened leadership in this field from Madison we had better find it at home.

Which way will it be for the Fox Cities?

no longer can rely upon foot travel. And so helicopters are being introduced.

The Export - Import Bank is lending Pakistan more than $3 million for the helicopters which will begin regular service in the area next fall. A survey of the proposed operations by New York Airways indicated the minimum passengers in a year as 200,000. There are 51 million people in the area to be served. Fares are to be kept at about the railroad level. The trip by rail from Dacca to Khulna costs $13.50 and takes 21 hours. The helicopter trip will cost $10 and take 37 minutes.

Helicopters can operate in the area without the construction of airfields and are more economical where great speed or great distances are not involved. And leaping into a completely different era is not a major step for people who have leaped several in the last few decades.

cipals and superintendents must have a major in an academic field. Secondary teachers are to teach only those subjects for which they have a major or a minor while junior college teachers must have a major in the subject they teach. Competence in composition must be displayed by all teachers. Forty-five units will be required in the humanities, social sciences, mathematics, fine arts and foreign languages.

There is even an "Einstein clause" which permits recognized authorities in a particular field to teach in the public school regardless of educational background. This grew out of complaints that the educationists had so many method requirements that even Albert Einstein could not qualify to teach in most public schools.

In many states, particularly in the north, requirements of subject matter and degrees have been raised. The criticism leveled at the teachers colleges has been extreme in many cases and blind to the fact that, as the California board put it, the skill "in the art of transmitting knowledge" also is important. But certainly the new California standards, which are bound to be picked up in large measure in other states, will substantially raise the educational level of teachers.

Another Brink to Worry About

U. S. Collects Record Taxes But We're Almost Broke Again

BY HENRY J. TAYLOR

Nothing is so conducive to thought about debt as the sheriff's knock on the door. Our U. S. Treasury got the knock (and how!) on Wednesday, May 29. Any taxpayer who thinks it's not time to blow the whistle on our politicians might harken to the gigantic jiggle and kiting of checks staged that day.

By May 24 our debt reached $304 billion, breathing down the neck of the $305 billion legal limit. This maximum derives from the constitutional provision giving Congress the power "to borrow money on the credit of the United States." Congress delegates the privilege to the treasury—but only to a specific limit.

The New Frontier inherited a $293 billion legal debt limit. Within five months (June 27, 1961) Treasury Sec. Douglas Dillon asked Congress to boost it. "A temporary statutory debt limit of $298 billion," he testified, "should give us sufficient elbow room for maximum efficiency of operations."

Temporary? Efficiency? Mr. Dillon's statement was worthy of the mauve decade's Coal Oil Johnny, who made his reputation throwing money off the back of trains.

In Red From Start This administration has been running in the red at the rate of about $115 million a week ever since it took office. The New Frontier pattern has been to borrow about $100 million in regular weekly sales of three-to-six months "bills" to permit this. In truth, its policy is to go further in debt by borrowing more to pay expenses so that it can give more (our money) away. Accordingly, Mr. Dillon's estimate of debt levels proved wrong by $5.4 billion in only the first half of his first fiscal year.

President Kennedy soon asked another raise to $300 billion. Then he asked another push to $305 billion. Now he is asking still another to $309 billion for July 1, with an Aug. 31 expiration date. The next scheduled demand is to $320 billion. Thus the politicians spend their borrowed (From us) money in the incredible atmosphere of giving us something for nothing. This is not economics, and surely not financial responsibility; it's just a political picnic.

Broke Again! As one result, the New Frontier is collecting more taxes than at the top of World War II—the largest tax load in history. Yet on May 26 our Treasury was so broke it didn't have enough money in the till to meet its bills. And piling on more debt was illegal until May 29.

Now, the debt ceiling illegally shattered by the spenders would make any government securities sold, or additional debts contracted, not obligations of the U. S. government. By low they would be the personal obligations of Treasury Sec. Douglas Dillon. Knock-knock—wow! Among other types of defaults, Treasury officials agreed that the savings bond program would have to be stopped immediately.

The whole top echelon of Treasury brains was diverted from its regular work like a fire brigade to spray water on the sheriff.

The New Frontiersmen were so close to the brink that, with a sudden cessation of further borrowings, only one route was open for escape. They took it. Do we know it? No. And it should be exposed:

Juggle Trust Funds Behind the scenes, in a big midnight burning of the midnight oil, they juggled the government's trust funds—our money they hold in trust for Social Security, unemployment insurance, and such.

As another result of the brink, the Federal Reserve System has had to apply a general restraint on credit. The Treasury's three-to-six-month "bills" borrowings helped deter the short-term investment outflow and ease the ta-ta to America's gold. This defense is affected. The result also ups our costs for the politicians' borrowings when one out of each 10 Federal tax dollars already goes to meet the interest on money already borrowed.

Moreover, the New Frontier has not yet begun to borrow the billions it must collect for its "planned deficits" in the new fiscal year beginning July 1.

This is the stuff of which our politicians' financial responsibility is constructed while they tell us their spend-spend of our earnings and savings is good for the American people.

False Pretenses Adorn Highways

Applying a creative touch to the highway problem, Italian traffic experts have experimented with an offset way to cut down headlight glare at night.

They are using fake leaves made of plastic, set in rows down the middle of highway dividing strips. These work better than real plants, the story goes, because real ones tend to die out fast on account of all the exhaust fumes.

False pretenses in the garment industry are one thing. Phony foliage on the countryside is another. It seems a shame that nature's honest output can't take care of the glare as well as simulated stuff.

Proxmire Attempting To Nudge GOP Into Preferential Battle

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — A favorite posture of Sen. William Proxmire of Wisconsin is that of benevolent advisor to the opposition Republican party.

Thus the senior senator of this state the other day brought out a press release in which he communicated his conclusion that it would be a shame if the Republicans so arranged matters next year as to avoid a fight in an open election for the Wisconsin delegates to the next national convention between the two most obvious candidates for the presidential nomination, Sen. Goldwater and Gov. Rockefeller.

The two men are able champions for their respective viewpoints and skilled campaigners and the Wisconsin presidential primary provides a forum for their competition that would be an event of nation-wide interest, he suggested.

Sen. Proxmire let it be known that he has no patience with those who are talking about a "favorite son" candidate among Wisconsin Republicans, as a means of avoiding the Goldwater-Rockefeller test here. That would be a betrayal of the idea of the Wisconsin primary which in turn is one of the proudest achievements of democratic election procedure in the country, in his view.

PURE PROXMIRE

This was pure Proxmire, the posture of objective analysis, polite regret, and mild remonstrance about a less than literal performance of the functions of the election laws, all of it in the bashful manner of the political scientist speaking for the class.

What he was doing, in reality, was introducing what will be the theme of the Democratic party's attack if the Republicans proceed with the favorite son device to avoid the Rockefeller-Goldwater confrontation here.

For such a fight would be about the most fratricidal for the Republicans that could be conceived. Everybody knows it, including, apparently, the managers in the headquarters of the prospective presidential candidates. Early representations indicate that they are no more anxious to spill blood here in the delegate fight next spring than is the Republican party organization of this state which is pushing the favorite son scheme for all that it is worth.

But it is exactly such a Republican blood-letting that the Democrats want, and it is that desire that Mr. Proxmire expressed in his solicitous, almost avuncular letter of advice the other day.

HOW IT WAS

Yet the senior senator may be reminded that he was not always so eager an advocate of Wisconsin presidential primary fights. He was unable, for example, to take a position in the Kennedy-Humphrey Democratic struggle here three years ago.

Nor was the man who is now demanding that he be on the record with such an insistence upon a showdown when the Democrats were maneuvering for pre-convention position in 1960. Everybody knew that Sen. Lyndon Johnson was then a leading candidate for the presidency, and that he represented an ideology clearly distinguishable from Humphrey and Kennedy. But there was no public demand for his filing in the Wisconsin primary.

The Proxmire statement is useful for what it suggests to the Republicans of the difficulties in their path in presenting with any conviction or popular credence a "favorite son" candidacy for the presidential nomination. It is the sort of thing that some Republican voters will be thinking.

But it is scarcely relevant to Proxmire's position as the leader of the opposition. It is akin to a complaint from the small boy that the architectural design of the pantry is wrong because the cookie jar is beyond his reach.

Women's Fashions Reflect Human Desires

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

There are two contradictory, but equally strong, desires in the modern human being who lives in a mobile society such as ours. One is the desire to "belong"; the other is the desire to "stand out."

How successfully we can resolve the tension between these two contradictions is the measure of a society's growth and stability. And such tension can most easily be seen, for instance, in the world of fashion and style.

Edward Sapir, writing some years ago in the "Encyclopedia of Social Science," describes the "contradictory functions of fashion." Style on the part of women is always an effort to arbitrate, to strike a balance, between the desire to stand out in the crowd and the need to belong and be accepted by the group.

A woman would not customarily go out for an evening in a hat or gown that was 10 years outmoded; she wants to be in the current fashion. On the other hand, if her hat or gown is too much like some others at the same party, she feels humiliated or cheated out of her individuality. What she is looking for, in Sapir's phrase, is "adventurous safety."

The contradiction was put in more basically psychological terms by Lin Yutang, in his witty epigram: "All women's dresses are merely variations on the eternal struggle between the admitted desire to dress and the unadmitted desire to undress."

Society, like all institutions, tends toward conformity, toward uniformity, toward group solidarity. Yet the individual, while needing the comfort of "belonging," also possesses the opposite urge to be different, to stand out, to assert his uniqueness in one way or another.

Changing fashions can be understood only as a psychological means of giving expression to both these tendencies at once—the women all wear sack dresses or cloche hats at the same time, and yet each one endeavors to look as distinctively different as possible.

A good society seeks to preserve as much diversity as possible within the unity of the group. And although the United States prides itself on being the land of "individualism," we too often limit this to our economic life alone, and discourage individual expression in ideas, in ways of living, in the eccentricities and idiosyncracies that give a people color and vitality and charm.

A country without a "beat movement" of some sort, without its rebels, its innovators, its iconoclasts, would be spiritual and intellectually petrified. And economic individualism could not long thrive in such a climate of social conformity.

Looking Backward

Canal Convention in Chicago

100 YEARS AGO Quoted from the Appleton Motor for June 11, 1863.

The Canal Convention at Chicago was a large, able and earnest body of men. Hon. Hannibal Hamlin, Vice President of the United States, presided.

The true policy for Wisconsin prevailed throughout, notwithstanding the desperate efforts of Milwaukee politicians to secure such a representation on the committees as would have effectually ignored the claims of Northern and Central Wisconsin. They may depend on it, they will be duly paid in full.

A committee was appointed to memorialize Congress on behalf of the various routes recommended and the following resolutions were adopted:

That we regard the construction and enlargement of canals between the Mississippi River and the Atlantic with canals duly connecting the lakes as of great military and commercial importance. Such works will not only be national, but continental, and their accomplishment is required on every principle of sound political economy.

That such national highways (the Mississippi and the (Great) Lakes as far as practicable shall be free without tolls or restrictions, and we should deprecate the shackling of this great thoroughfare in the hands of any private corporation or state.

That the work should be accomplished by national credit, and as soon as the cost is reimbursed to the National Treasury it should be as free as the Lakes to the commerce of the world.

Lions President O. K. Ferry presented the "movie queen" with a bouquet, a parade was held in her honor and Mayor W. H. Jensen presented the guest with a key to the city. Members of the "movie" star's party included her director, producer, manager and other personalities portrayed by Menasha residents James Woeckner, Mrs. G. W. Loomans, Dr. V. C. Kilnick, Roman Fahrback, Dr. F. G. Jensen, N. F. Verbrick, A. F. Landig and George Thompson Jr.

Pope John Brought Church To Grips With 20th Century

To Many People of All Faiths, Vatican May Now Seem Closer

BY BENNET M. BOLTON

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The man who succeeds Pope John XXIII will come to a papacy significantly changed during his reign.

To many people, Catholics and non-Catholics alike, the papacy may seem closer now.

The tradition that Popes seldom leave the Vatican has been broken. Hesitation to receive Protestant leaders has been overcome.

Pope John brought the church to grips with the 20th Century. On Nov. 4, 1958, the day he was crowned, no one dreamed of the changes that were ahead.

Then 76, the pontiff with the heavy features was appraised by many as an interim Pope. There were predictions that the papacy would remain fairly static until the emergence of a strong, vigorous, younger Pope.

Pope John at once shattered that concept, and he continued to sweep away the pieces as his reign progressed. He brought the Pope out of the Vatican and the Roman Catholic Church out of the counterreformation, carrying both dynamically into a difficult, modern world.

Major Works

The major works that marked Pope John as a great Pope were his Ecumenical Council and his major encyclicals "Mater et Magistra" (1961) called for a better deal for the working man and more equitable distributions of the world's goods. It ranks with Pope Leo XIII's Rerum Novarum, which set the church's modern social policy.

"Pacem in Terris" (1963) appealed to mankind to learn to live in a peaceful world with some many as an interim Pope. There were predictions that the papacy would remain fairly static until the emergence of a strong, vigorous, younger Pope.

He once said that he hoped his "single and true title of honor" would always be: "He was a priest before God and before the people, a true and sincere friend of all the nations."

The humble farmer's son had a difficult time at first adjusting to the papal or imperial "We" when referring to himself in public address. He would explain to an aide that it was awkward to think of oneself in the plural, and he often reverted to "I."

"Don't interrupt me — I mean us," the Pope once joked. The new Pope of 1958 wasted no time. One of his first acts was to announce in January, 1959, that he would call an ecumenical—or general—council of all his bishops.

There had been only 20 before in history, the last in 1869-70. Pope John explained that his council would be a council of "aggiornamento"—bringing up to date—designed to help the cause of Christian unity and restore to his own church the pure lines of early centuries.

He labored hard the next four-and-a-half years to bring the project into reality. He set up an elaborate preparatory program to sound out the bishops' ideas and draw up topics.

He created a secretariat to promote Christian unity and put an eminent Biblical scholar, Augustin Cardinal Bea, at its head. The secretariat invited observer delegates from the world's major Christian faiths to attend the council.

Ecumenical Activity

Thus was the Roman Catholic Church plunged actively into the ecumenical (unity) movement of Protestantism and Eastern Orthodoxy.

Pope John opened the Ecumenical Council in medieval pomp and liturgical splendor on Oct. 11, 1962, in the midst of 2,500 council fathers. The 48 non-Catholic observers were given places of honor.

When the council's initial session recessed in December for nine months, Pope John already was seriously ill. But the council's work has caused such a stir in the church and aroused such favorable comment both in and out of the church, that it is believed his successor has no choice but to continue it.

The Pope found time to write eight encyclical letters. Two of them were pronouncements of major impact. "Mater et Magistra" (1961) called for a better deal for the working man and more equitable distributions of the world's goods. It ranks with Pope Leo XIII's Rerum Novarum, which set the church's modern social policy.

Protestants and atheists — including Soviet Premier Khrushchev's daughter Rada and son-in-law Alexei Adzhubei, editor of Izvestia. No other Pope had ever received such a personality from the Soviet Union.

He used every chance that offered itself to add one more note for brotherhood and tolerance — and he put it to practice, such as striking a disparaging adjective about Jews from a centuries-old Good Friday liturgical ceremony.

The people of the Eternal City, which has seen virtually all the Popes of Catholicism pass down through 20 centuries, took Pope John to their hearts as their beloved pastor, one of their own.

Crowds pressed in tight whenever he rode by their piazzas. They shouted their admiration until it rang from the Forum's ruins. "Long live the Pope!" "Long live Papa Giovanni!" And they chanted the warmest of Italian endearments, the diminutive: "Long live Pope Little John!"

The passing figure in white beamed in appreciation, nodding out into bustling Rome and beyond. He raised his hands in a gentle its brow of sunny hills. He was wave and whispered over and the first Pope in nearly a century ever his favorite reply: "Coraggio, coraggio!"—Courage, courage.

Crop Harvest Age Is Main Quality Factor

BY RUSSELL L. LUCKOW
Outagamie County Farm Management Agent

If you let your hay stand in the field too long before harvest, you'll have a poor feeding hay no matter how you harvest and store it.

Russell Johannes, superintendent of the University's experimental farm at Marshfield says, "Age of the crop at harvest is one of three key factors in putting up quality forage. The other two are the crop itself, and getting the crop into storage without leaf loss or weather damage."

Once the crop is growing, the most important step is cutting at the right time. I would like to point out that forage drops in feed value each day as it grows. A farmer has to compromise between the highest possible food value in the forage and the tonnage he harvests. Research shows that alfalfa has maximum food value at the 1-10th bloom stage. Any additional tonnage you get after this does not produce milk. It's material that wastes in the cow's stomach and even cuts down the amount she will eat.

Saving Leaves

We know that it's extremely important to save the leaves. On a good alfalfa crop cut at 1-10th bloom, about half the weight of the crop is leaves. However, the leaves contain nearly two-thirds the feed value.

There seems to be a definite swing away from field curing to save the leaves and to harvest on time. The movement is toward forage handled at a higher moisture content. Farmers are finding that wilted silage (65 per cent moisture) and low moisture silage (50 per cent moisture) are very practical means of solving the leaf loss problem. The silo also solves the harvest schedule problem since you need much less drying time in the field.

Since June 3 we have received a large number of calls on "spots" in the newly seeded oat fields. The general description is a yellowing and a drying up of the leaves usually the lower leaves. On the farms that I have checked, most of these spots seem to be infected with Halo Blight. This is a fungus disease that attacks cultivated oats and several grasses.

"For Water Where You Want It"

State Production of Ice Cream in 1963 Highest on Record

Wisconsin's ice cream production last year was the highest period for both Wisconsin and the nation following an almost steady upswing since 1950, according to the Wisconsin Crop Reporting Service.

Dairy plants in the state made nearly 24 million gallons of ice cream last year. This production is nearly 2 per cent above the 1962 output and 48 per cent more than the 1956 production.

Ice cream production in the first quarter of this year was up 1 per cent from the same 1962 period for both Wisconsin and the nation.

The upswing in ice cream production comes from the demands of a greater number of consumers since the average annual consumption per person in 1961 and 1962 was close to 4 gallons. This consumption figure is expected to hold for this year.

Agent Describes Ways To Do Haying Better

Good Quality, Low Moisture Silage Can be Made by Careful Operator

BY JOE L. WALKER
Waupaca County Agent

Our hay crop is a bit later and spoiling in the field. However, the quality of our first cutting is much better than usual mainly due to moisture content close to the 50 per cent level. Use a mechanical distributor in the silo to prevent silage from packing up and fill the silo reasonably fast.

Tight Covers
Use tightly covered wagons to haul the material from the field. This helps cut down leaf loss and helps to maintain top quality. A few of the other cardinal rules for making good silage are:

- Bulk Tank
- Barn Cleaner
- Cor or Machinery
